President Peixotte Issues Another Proclamation.

National Expenses Are to be Cut Down.

Mobs Attack and Sack the Newspaper Offices Which Were Loyal to Fonseca—Yellow Fever at Rio Janeiro.

Rio de Janerio, Nov. 28.—President Peixotto has issued another manifesto in which he appeals to the people of Rio Grande do Sol to cease all further revolutionary proceedings.

He assures them and all other Brazilians that the resignation of Dictator Fonseca will result in benefit to the country, as it avoided the shedding of blood. The president also promises to reduce the national expenses and to re-establish the credit of Brazil.

Army and navy officials conferred yesterday for the purpose of devising means for the preservation of order throughout the republic. The military tribunal issued a proclamation in which it guarantees to protect the life of Fonseca.

An enraged mob attacked and sacked the offices of the newspapers that supported Fonseca.

Dr. Brazil, president of the late provisional junta of Rio Grande do Sul, has been appointed governor of that state. His appointment is a most popular one.

It can be safely said that the revolution in Brazil is at an end.

MORE NEW YORK STEALS.

President Andrews Shows Plenty of Fight.

He Does Not Propose to Give Up Any of the Money He Has Stored Away for the Future.

New York, Nov. 28.—The board of directors of the Standard Gas company met yesterday in secret session to consider the case of the former president of the company, Wallace C. Andrews, who is charged with having appropriated $3,000,000 worth of the common stock of the company. The negotiations are still progressing, looking for a settlement of the matter outside of the courts, the directors being willing to accept $2,000,000, but this Mr. Andrews has refused, thus far, to give. If the case is brought to court—and a majority of the directors are of the opinion that it will be—there promises to be revealed a choice lot of scandal concerning Andrews' relations to certain assemblymen who facilitated his efforts to secure the passage of an act authorizing the Standard Gas company to lay its mains.

THE BLAINE STAR

Is Peeping in at the Harrison Window,

And the Dazzling Light Hurts Benjamin's Eyes.

His Opaque Shades Will Not Shut it Out,

And the Spirit of His Dreams is Haunted.

The President Grows Uneasy Under the Existing State of Affairs and is Reported to Have Given the National Committee the Cold Shoulder.

Washington, Nov. 28.—It leaked out to-night that President Harrison narrowly escaped an open rupture with the national committee when it called at the white house to pay its respects. When all the members of the committee had been ushered up-stairs into the cabinet-room, word was sent into the president's room that they were there. They were not invited in, however, but were asked to wait. They waited five minutes. Nobody came to ask them in. They waited ten minutes. Nobody came to ask them in. They waited fifteen minutes, and nobody called to ask them in.

Some of them became restive, some profane, and several started for the door, remarking that if Benjamin Harrison had not enough respect for them to admit them they hadn't enough for him to wait. Chairman Clarkson begged them to wait, while he personally went to Private Secretary Halford and strongly represented to him the unwisdom of keeping the national committee of the party cooling its heels in waiting. Halford went to the president and told him what Clarkson had said. The president saw his mistake and told Halford to bring them in. Twenty minutes had elapsed and most of them were too mad to go in. However, under Clarkson's coaxing they went, to find that McKinley, Secretary Noble and Uncle Jerry Rusk had been occupying the president's attention.

After a formal exchange of courtesies, as brief as Foraker's famous interview with Harrison, the committee then hurried over to the state department, more opposed to Harrison and devoted to Blaine than before, the warmth of Blaine's greeting bringing out effectively the coldness of Harrison's.

The bob-tailed flag which the storm left flying over the white house occurred to two-thirds if not three-fourths of the national committeemen as emblematic of the Harrison boom as it appears after having been struck by the Blaine cyclone.

Blaine is already as good as nominated, if not as good as elected, according to these men. Minneapolis was selected because Blaine preferred it to Cincinnati, fearing the fatal Foraker. The great Blaine northwest will gather at the Twin Cities, as they are now universally called, and Blaine will inevitably be nominated. They have no doubt that he will accept.

"If he would not," they say, "he would tell us so now." He has had plenty of opportunities. He had a dozen more to-day. Two of them were semi-public, when a declaration for Harrison or even a declaration that he himself could not think of accepting the nomination would have been appropriate and would have been certain to get prompt and continental publicity.

The first occasion was when the triumphant Minnesota delegation (except the Postmaster and ex-Senator "Gil" Pierce, editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, the only Harrison paper in Minnesota, who refused to go) called to tell him as plainly as they could without embarrassing him, that they expected to follow him as the party's candidate in the next presidential campaign. There were newspaper men present. Blaine, with customary caution, affected ignorance of the details of the committee's action, although he had waited up till after midnight to get the news, and asked when the convention would be held. "June 7," said half a dozen men at once.

"Well," said Blaine, laughing his old-time laugh, "I hope Minneapolis will be thawed out by that time."

"Ah, Mr. Secretary," said Mr. Eustis, "you have no reason to imagine that there is any coldness in Minneapolis toward you."

"I know that," said Blaine heartily; whereupon Mr. Blethen said: "Before the convention meets, Mr. Blaine, you will receive undubitable testimony as to the increase in the warmth of feeling the people have for you."

To which Mr. Blaine replied only with his significant smile.

That significant smile did duty a little later when the entire national committee—after a brief, cold and formal call at the white house—came over to pay its respects to Blaine, and several of its members reminded him of the desire of his party that he should lead it once more.

Then was his chance to say that his health or his "loyalty" to his official chief or something else would prevent his accepting that honor.

President Harrison thinks he ought to have refused it in some emphatic way. So do other Harrison men in and out of the cabinet. But instead of doing so, Blaine responded with that encouraging smile which his visitors all read as meaning: "Go ahead, and when the time comes I will be found ready."

Blaine was very complimentary to the committeemen. After congratulating them upon the selection they had made of a convention city and of an early date, he said he thought they would manage the next campaign admirably. Chairman Clarkson reminded him that their powers expired when their successors were chosen by the convention in June.

"Yes," said Blaine, "but you ought to hold over until after the campaign."

After the committee left, McKinley paid his respects to Blaine, and afterward walked over to the white house arm in arm with him, where Blaine left him to go in to the cabinet meeting.

The great majority of the visiting statesmen, who go to work at once to elect delegates to the convention under Clarkson's call, expect to elect delegates who will nominate Blaine, and have no fear of being embarrassed by any discouragement from him.

BURNED AT SEA.

The American Clipper Ship Rappahannock Destroyed in the Pacific.

New York, Nov. 28.—The World's Valparaiso special says that the American clipper ship Rappahannock was burned to the water's edge on the night of November 11, while at anchor in the harbor of Cumberland bay in the northern part of the South Pacific island of Juan Fernandez. Capt. Dickinson, his wife and the crew escaped. They will be sent to San Francisco.

The Rappahannock left Liverpool on August 29 last and was bound for San Francisco with a valuable cargo of merchandise. Spontaneous combustion is supposed to be the cause of the fire.

IN A BOILING HOT SEA.

Strange Experience of an American Ship Overtaken by the Earthquake.

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—The American bark Hesper, which arrived from Kobe, brings an account of the earthquake. In the harbor of Kobe the vessel was tossed like a cork on the waters, but this was nothing to the shock felt when the Hesper was seventy-five miles from Kobe.

The sea before had been calm, but huge waves swept over the deck and the water was hot as though from a boiler. Then came another phenomenon. Great blasts of hot air began to belch forth. As they enveloped the ship the seamen began to sneeze, and the stench became almost unbearable.

It was sulphur fumes of the strongest kind. These would pass away after a few seconds, but thirty seconds later there would come another upheaval and the Hesper would again be enveloped in the fumes. The vessel rolled and pitched and several times she threatened go to the bottom.

ALL WENT DOWN.

Liverpool, Nov. 28.—During a heavy fog on the Mesrey an unknown steamer ran into a bark supposed to be the Harmony, off the lightship. The steamer was so badly damaged that she sank almost immediately and her entire crew were drowned.

KILLED BY A COLLISION.

London, Nov. 28.—A passing steamer ran into a steam launch which was crossing the river Tyne at Shields, crushing the launch to pieces. A number of workmen were on board the launch, three of whom were killed, the others were rescued.

PLAYING BOTH ENDS.

A Lorain Republican in Hot Water.

He Promised to Vote for Sherman and Now Wants to Find a Way to Go Back on His Word.

Elyria, O., Nov. 28.—Col. George L. Couch, mayor of Wellington, has contracted with the Enterprise of that city for a column in which to extol the virtues of ex-Gov. Foraker for the United States senatorship, and the first installment made its appearance yesterday.

This sudden change of front on the part of Mr. Couch has caused a feeling of mingled surprise and indignation on the part of a large number of the friends of that gentleman in Elyria, who labored hard for his nomination for representative at the last republican county convention, at which Hon. J. T. Haskell of Wellington was nominated. Prior to the convention Mr. Couch's views on the senatorship were questioned by his opponents, and he caused a letter to be published in every republican paper in the county defining his position, of which the following is an extract:

"If I should be so fortunate as to become a member of the next legislature I shall again assist and vote for his (Sherman's) re-election. Therefore, if, as they (his opponents) claim, this is their only reason for opposing me at this time, I am sure the above statement ought to remove all further opposition. By their works therein shall we know them. Let us wait and see. Respectfully,

"GEORGE L. COUCH."

This was first published on May 20, and was reiterated until the day of the convention, a month later.

MRS. A. J. DREXEL DEAD.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—Mrs. A. J. Drexel, wife of the banker, died at the family's country seat, Runnymede. She has been ailing for a year with an affection of the heart and five weeks ago was taken seriously ill.

Mrs. Drexel was the daughter of John Roset, an old French merchant.

BANK FAILURE.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 28.—The Clinton loan association, Sampson & Co., Clinton, N. C., has suspended with capital stock of $50,000. It was a state banking concern.

IT WAS FALSE ALARM.

A Sensation Exploded in Short Order.

There Has Been no Agent of the Vatican, Disguised as a Butler, in Lord Salisbury's House.

London, Nov. 28.—Lord Salisbury's secretary, in the absence of the prime minister, was asked to-day by a correspondent of the United Press, whether there was any truth in the sensational story being circulated to the effect that the emissary of the vatican, disguised as a butler, had been recognized by a lady visitor, as employed in the household of Lord Salisbury at Hatfield house, Hertfordshire, and that the spy, said to be an Italian priest, fled so soon as the lady referred to recognized him as having previously seen him at the vatican.

The secretary smiled when the question was put to him, and then said, emphatically: "The concoction referred to is too foolish to be officially contradicted."

From other sources, also, it is learned that there is not a word of truth in the remarkable tale.

DAN DALY DEAD.

St. Louis, Nov. 28.—Dan Daly, a well known pugilist and sporting man, has died at St. Vincent's hospital. He had been suffering for the past ten days from nervous prostration.

TO FORCE THE FIGHT.

Paris, Nov. 28.—The archbishop of Annecy has written the minister of public worship a letter similar to that for which the archbisop of Aix was tried and fined. It is supposed that proceedings will be begun against the archbishop of Annecy.

TO BE HUNTED DOWN.

Mexican Troops to Search for Garza.

The United States Has Protested Against the Military Trial of Barrett in Monterey.

Laredo, Tex., Nov. 28.—While nothing definite has been heard for several days of the revolutionist, Garza, the Mexican government seems at last to have taken a serious view of the situation.

Transportation has been ordered on the Mexican National road for moving 2,000 troops from the City of Mexico to the frontier. Two trains of 25 cars each will arrive over the road from the interior of Mexico and will be distributed along the river front.

Nothing definite has been heard yet from Monterey regarding the military trial of the United States soldier Barrett, who was stabbed last week by a Mexican soldier with a bayonet in New Laredo.

The result of his trial is watched here with much interest. It is understood that Consul-General Sutton, stationed at New Laredo, has protested on the part of this government against these military proceedings.

THE WAR IN IRELAND.

The Clan-na-Gael to Take an Active Part.

Physical Force to be Used in Conducting the Battle.

The Sullivan and Cronin Wings of the Society in This Country Are Once More Pulling Together for a Common Cause.

New York, Nov. 28.—The Sun this morning prints the following: The conference of Irish-Americans on Thursday night, at which resolutions were passed warning the people of Ireland that "they can receive no further support, moral or financial, from this country until they call a halt in the war of factions and reunite the forces now engaged in the work of self-destruction," was the first step of the adherents of Parnell in the United States to show that they were for union.

About one hundred from nine states were present. Almost all of them were members of the Cronin wing of the Clan-na-Gael. Michael Breslin, of this city, one of the men who organized the conference, said to a Sun reporter yesterday:

"Although most of us were Clan-na-Gael men, we are supporters to a certain extent of the parliamentary movement. Twelve years ago Parnell, Davitt and John Devoy, a member of the Clan-na-Gael, held a conference at which Parnell agreed not to do anything to injure the Clan-na-Gael if that body would not try to hinder the parliamentary movement. That agreement was kept by both sides. The Clan-na-Gael is waiting to see if the parliamentary agitation produces the results it has promised. If it does not the Clan-na-Gael will resume its old and well-known line of action.

"The Clan-na-Gael is a secret, physical force organization.

"The parliamentary people on the other side," said Mr. Breslin, "have been acting disgracefully. If the factions don't unite, nothing can be accomplished. We are giving them a good trial and at the same time keeping our organization alive."

It is said that what may be called the Alexander Sullivan wing of the Clan-na-Gael has issued a secret circular among the camps of the United States in harmony with it, stating that as the parliamentary agitation has been unsuccessful it is time to return to the physical force policy. The circular is said to advise that to begin work 15 per cent. of the funds in each camp be sent at once to an officer of the body.

PUGH ON SILVER.

He Objects to Being Classed Among the Unwise.

He Wants the Money Question and the Tariff Question to Go Hand in Hand in 1892.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Senator Pugh, of Alabama, has written a letter denying emphatically a statement made by Senator Carlisle that any democratic senator or congressman who supports the free coinage of silver has expressed a desire, intention or purpose to abandon or ignore the vital issue of tariff reform."

"All that the friends of silver demand," says Senator Pugh, "is what the democratic party in every national convention has done without a single exception; kept the taxation and currency questions together as co-ordinate and co-equal subjects of remedial legislation.

"Neither tariff reform nor financial reform has ever been ignored nor abandoned, or one subordinated to the other in any democratic platform during the lifetime of the party. If the friends of silver are to be classed as unwise counsellors and unsafe leaders, because they insist that the silver issue shall not be abandoned or ignored in the presidential contest of 1892, but that it shall go hand in hand and receive the same treatment with all other issues made in the platform, especially when they are so classed and condemned at the instance and in the interest of those democrats who throttled the free coinage bill in the last house of representatives, all the friends of silver have to say is that they are accustomed to such classification and hope to be able to persevere in the vindication of their convictions and integrity.

"As democrats and friends of free coinage they protest against being retired from the councils of the democratic party because they are unwilling to allow the corporal's guard of gold representatives to dictate to the friends of silver, and silence and postpone them in their just demands, until the veto power can be put in the hands of a democratic president for four years, to be exercised against any adjustment of the silver question except on the formula to be furnished by the wise counsellors and safe leaders to be found only in the neighborhood of Wall street.

NORWALK NEWS.

Pat Molloy, charged with taking a horse without leave, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and 30 days in the Cleveland workhouse.

RONCKENDORFF DEAD.

New York, Nov. 28.—Commodore Wm. Ronckendorff, United States navy, died yesterday morning at the Grand hotel. He was born in Pennsylvania, was appointed to the navy in 1832, and served throughout the war of the rebellion. He was commissioned as commodore in 1873, and in the following year was retired.

BABY CAUGHT LIKE A BALL.

Miraculous Incident Where a Little Life Was Saved.

New York, Nov. 28.—A miraculous incident happened at Williamsburg yesterday. Mrs. Kunegarde Fuchman went to the butcher shop and left her baby boy, George asleep in the cradle upstairs. Soon after her departure, the child anxious to see if its mother were returning, hoisted the window, leaned forward and tumbled out.

At that moment a brawny German who refused to reveal his name was passing, happened to look up and, seeing the baby come bouncing down like a ball, caught it. Neither was hurt and the mother, when she heard the story of her boy's escape was the only one to weep.

A MONSTER OWL.

Winchester, O., Nov. 28.—George Darling, a farmer living east of here, has on exhibition a monster owl that he trapped on his farm. The owl had made frequent visits to his hennery, and Tuesday Mr. Darling saw where a full-grown chicken had been partly eaten. He set a trap, and yesterday morning the trap was gone. Charles Rye, while out hunting, saw an owl fast in the top limbs of a tree, with Mr. Darling's trap. The bird measured four feet and eight inches from tip to tip.

LOCOMOTIVE EXPLOSION.

Akron, O., Nov. 28.—An engine on an extra freight, blew up on the Cleveland, Akron & Clumbus railroad, two miles south of here. John Byron, engineer, of Millersburg and George Parker, of Fair Oaks, O., were instantly killed.

THE VOTE IN OHIO.

The People's Party in the Recent Campaign.

An Analysis of the Ballots Made by W. A. Taylor—Some Interesting Figures.

Columbus, Nov. 28.—W. A. Taylor is the author of the following interesting review of the Ohio election:

The total vote cast for secretary of state in 1889 was as follows:

For Ryan, republican, 362,594; Cromley, democrat, 353,840; Lockwood, prohibitionist, 23,837; Curtis, union labor, 1,752; scattering, 470. Total, 742,493.

For governor, 1891: McKinley, republican, 386,729; Campbell, democrat, 365-228; Ashenhurst, prohibition, 20,190; Seitz, people's party, 23,472. Total, 795,-619.

Increase in total vote, 53,418.
Increase in republican vote, 24,135.
Increase in democratic vote, 11,388.
Decrease in prohibition vote, 3,940.
Increase in people's vote, compared with united labor, 21,713.

On the tariff question the republican platform declared for the high tariff robbery. The other three parties declared for tariff reform in almost identical language.

On this question the vote stood: For tariff robbery, 386,729; for tariff reform, 408,892; majority for tariff reform, 22,-163.

A foolish dividing up of the tariff reform votes gave the offices and the prestige in Ohio to the disciples of tariff robbery.

The following analysis of the vote will show how the people's party, so-called, alone put Ohio in the false attitude of indorsing McKinleyism:

There were 67 counties namely: Adams, Allen, Ashland, Ashtabula, Athens, Auglaize, Belmont, Brown, Clark, Clermont, Clinton, Columbiana, Coshocton, Crawford, Darke, Defiance, Delaware, Erie, Fairfield, Gallia, Geauga, Greene, Guernsey, Hardin, Harrison, Henry, Hocking, Holmes, Huron, Jackson, Jefferson, Knox, Lake, Licking, Logan, Lorain, Madison, Meigs, Mercer, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan, Morrow, Muskingum, Noble, Ottawa, Paulding, Pickaway, Pike, Preble, Putnam, Richland, Ross, Sandusky, Seneca, Shelby, Trumbull, Tuscarawas, Union, Van Wert, Vinton, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Williams, Wood and Wyandot, in which the democrats sustained losses.

These losses aggregated 17,694.

The same counties cast 16,736 votes for the people's ticket.

The remaining 21 counties show a republican loss of 5,429. They cast 5,077 votes for the people's ticket.

The actual gains made by the republicans were 27,247.

The losses 5,429.

The actual democratic gains were 10,984 in the 88 counties, and the loss therein is accounted for by the people's ticket votes cast. Add them to the actual democratic gain and it would be 27,716.

Take from this the 5,077 votes cast for the people's ticket in the 21 counties, showing a republican loss, and it leaves 2,639.

This, it is clear enough, is the plurality by which the democratic state ticket would have been elected, if over 16,000 democrats had not voted for the people's ticket.

These democrats will have the satisfaction of knowing that their votes made the indorsement of McKinleyism possible in Ohio.

But will they persist in a similar folly at the next election? All their republican colleagues in the people's party went back to the republican fold, except a corporal's guard, leaving the befooled democratic members to hold the bag in the snipe hunt.

Regarding them as men of intelligence, it is hardly reasonable to suppose that they will be fooled again.

A HARD POINT TO PROVE.

Did Dr. Graves Mail the Bottle in Boston?

A Question Which, if Settled, Will Probably Send the Suspected Man to the Gallows.

Denver, Col., Nov. 28.—The work of securing a jury to try Dr. Thatcher Graves for the murder of Mrs. Josephine Barnaby has begun in the district court.

Dr. Graves spent Thanksgiving day with his wife in his Capitol Hill residence. She is just recovering from a severe attack of the grip, and the doctor has been continually at her side when not in court.

Some startling evidence is expected to be introduced. The manner in which the whisky bottle was sent to Mrs. Barnaby is still a mystery, although of course, as has been shown, it was forwarded from Boston.

The sending of the bottle will be the hardest fact to prove against the doctor, and it is upon the failure of the prosecution to prove that the doctor was the sender that the latter relies to clear himself and escape the gallows.

The court room contained the usual crowd this morning besides about twenty talesmen and many women. It is expected that a jury will be obtained by to-night.

FOUND MURDERED.

Maysville, Ky., Nov. 28.—At Aberdeen, O., Ezekiel Martin, a well known horse trader of Brown county, was found lying upon the steps of the Ennis hotel with a bullet hole through his head and another in the roof of his mouth. Martin has always been considered a peaceable citizen, and no reason can be assigned for the murder. No clue has yet been found to the murderer.

ROOSEVELT MAY WALK.

Another Turn in the Baltimore Case.

The Postoffice Has Made an Investigation.

According to Reports Everything is Lovely in Baltimore and No Violation of Law Has Taken Place.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The Post, under the caption, "Is Roosevelt to Go?" prints the following:

"The Post gave to its readers some weeks ago the details of an investigation of the Baltimore postoffice made by Mr. Roosevelt under circumstances which then provoked considerable comment. It occurred upon the eve of a primary election; was made at the suggestion of parties who would be benefited by such action, and reached its climax when Mr. Roosevelt appeared at the polls on election day.

"This inquiry was based on the alleged violation of the civil service laws by different employes of the office, and resulted in Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation that these employes be removed from office.

"Aware of the one-sided character of Mr. Roosevelt's reports, the postoffice department determined to make an investigation for itself. Two of the most trusted inspectors were sent to Baltimore with instructions to make a thorough investigation.

"They have been employed at this labor for some time, and the Post feels justified in stating that their report, a copy of which is in the hands of the postmaster-general, proves conclusively that the law has not been violated by the employes of the office, but instead, as is stated in the report, it has been grossly violated by Mr. Roosevelt.

"The Post also feels justified in saying that the report recommends Mr. Roosevelt's removal as a member of the commission.

"The report is accompanied by a mass of evidence, sworn to and given in detail which substantiates every allegation made in the report. The witnesses are men whose standing cannot be questioned and the testimony shows the investigation was conducted in an impartial manner."

NORTHERN NEIGHBORS.

They Are Having Much Trouble Over the Bait Question.

New York, Nov. 28.—A special to the Herald from Ottawa says there is no truth in the statement sent out that the imperial government has notified Newfoundland that her bait act is unconstitutional. The constitutionality of the act is virtually established by royal assent. Retaliation is the only measure of relief in the hands of the dominion cabinet. This, however, is not likely to be used, as it might fan the smouldering flame of the annexation movement in Newfoundland.

SHORT IN HER ACCOUNTS.

Mrs. West Convicted by Her Own Words.

The Principal of Rutger's Female College Has Been Converting the Funds to Her Own Use.

New York, Nov. 28.—The Herald this morning says Mrs. E. S. West, who, for six years was the lady principal of Rutger's female college, at Nos. 54 and 56 West 55th street, stands convicted by her own confession of converting the college funds to her own use.

There is proof that by most original and unique methods she has taken more than $3,000 which should have gone into the treasury of the institution. But the aggregate loss through her is much greater, although the exact amount cannot be stated. Certain it is, however, that the drain upon its resources was so heavy that the life of the college was actually menaced at one time.

The discovery was made in August last that Mrs. West had appropriated $200 from the primary department. When confronted with the evidence she admitted having taken the money and offered to resign; but at the same time she made so plausible an explanation that a majority of the trustees were inclined to regard her action as an error rather than as a fault, and she was allowed to retain her position.

After this discovery there were more developments. They came so rapidly that they trod upon each others heels and finally, on October 27 last, the lady principal was summoned before a meeting of the trustees and summarily dismissed.

"I am now awaiting," Mrs. West has since said, "the leadings of Providence regarding my future movements."

Dr. George W. Sampson, the president of the college, admitted yesterday that Mrs. West's connection with it had ended for the above reasons. He said he was inclined to regard her as a sort of kleptomaniac. He was reluctant to talk about the matter, for all relations between her and the institution had ceased when she left it.

HELD THEM ALL.

A Jury Which Made a Full Sweep in Locating Charges.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The coroner's jury that investigated the death of George White, caused by the fall of the Metzerott Music hall during the cyclone here Monday, returned the following verdict:

'From the evidence we believe that the accident was the result of carelessly carrying the side walls too high above the front walls without other proper support.

"We further believe that the owners of the building, the inspector of buildings, the contractor and the superintendent of the work are all to blame in the matter."

EXTENDING OUR TRADE

On the Line of Democracy's Teachings.

A Free Trade Treaty with the Hawaiian Islands to be Signed by President Harrison.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Dr. Mott Smith, a member of the cabinet of the queen of the Hawaiian islands, who was sent to Washington some time ago to secure modifications of the reciprocity treaty between Hawaii and this government, has concluded his work.

His efforts have resulted in the free trade between the two countries. The treaty has been signed by Dr. Smith and by the representatives of the United States, through whom the negotiations were carried on.

It has been in the possession of the president for several days, but has not yet been signed by him.

BOUGHT BACK HIS CHILD.

David T. Beals Finds His Lost Darling.

He Pays Five Thousand Dollars to the Abductors.

A Bold Case Perpetrated in the Heart of Kansas City, Where All the Actors Were Well Known to the Police.

Kansas City, Nov. 28.—Several days ago a woman giving the name of Lizzie Smith abducted the 2-year-old child of D. T. Beals. A diligent search failed to reveal the whereabouts of the child, and finally he offered $5,000 for the return of his child.

At 7 o'clock last evening a man of strange appearance presented himself at the front door of the Beals mansion. He wore a false face and a wig and was dressed very much like a day laborer. He told the servant who answered the bell, that he must see Mr. Beals immediately.

Mr. Beals went to the door. The man said he was a detective; that he had found the abductress and her accomplices; that they had the lost child in their possession; that they demanded $20,000 ransom and that he was prepared to deliver the child to its parents for that amount.

Mr. Beal declined to pay that sum and stuck to his original offer of $5,000. It was finally agreed that the "detective" should deliver the child for that amount. Mr. Beals told the police and detectives that he had pledged his honor that the deliverer of the child should not be arrested while engaged in carrying out of his part of the contract and ordered them positively not to interfere with his plans and they did not.

At 10 o'clock a ring brought Mr. Beals to the door. He saw his lost child in the arms of the ruffian who had bargained for the delivery of the child. Mr. Beals, who had drawn $5,000 in bank notes in order to be ready to fulfill his part of the bargain, counted out the money before the eyes of the man and placed the money in the outer pocket of the latter's coat. At the same time the masked man placed in the arms of the overjoyed father the lost child who was sleeping soundly, ignorant that he was being returned to his anxious parents.

The joy of the parents cannot be told. When a representative of the press arrived at the house the child had been dressed for the night but he was apparently so glad to be at home again that there was little sleep in his wondering eyes.

Mr. Beals was holding him fondly on his knee, feeding him porridge, apparently oblivious that a dozen newspaper men were observers of the operation. Mrs. Beals was too overjoyed to speak. She could only stand and stare at the boy as if afraid he would disappear if she removed her eyes from him. Mr. Beals is a thorough business man and is a man of few words.

He told the story of the recovery of the child practically as told above, and concluded: "I made a business contract. I agreed to pay $5,000 for my boy. I have the boy and the masked individual who delivered him to me has the money, and that's all there is about it."

Very little is known of Lizzie Smith, the abductress. The first trace of her in this city was found when it was discovered that she and two men, one of whom is known here as Albert King, and who is supposed to be her husband, rented a cottage about a month ago at No. 1528 Lydia avenue.

Of the other man practically nothing is known. The trio had occupied the house only a week. Mrs. King answered an advertisement for a waitress by Mrs. Beals. She was engaged, giving her name as Lizzie Smith without references. At the same time the Lydia avenue house was vacated, and all trace of the occupants excepting Mrs. King was lost.

It is supposed that the masked man who secured the $5,000 ransom was Albert King, the principal accomplice in the crime. Mrs. King was arrested at midnight but refused to be interviewed by any of the newspaper men. King has not been arrested, and it is not positively known that the other man figured at all in the crime.

Every effort was made to secure some information from "Junior Bees," but he is too young to speak plainly.

He was asked who carried him away.

"Lizzie," he lisped.

"But where did she take you?"

"Riding," the boy replied.

"And what did they do with you?"

"Nanas," and that was all the boy could tell; enough, however, to convict Lizzie Smith of one of the most cruel crimes on the calendar.

When Lizzie King was arrested she told a very thrilling story of the abduction. She said that while the Beals family were eating dinner Thursday evening she went out on the veranda to get the evening paper, which was delivered there every day.

As she was going into the house she saw two men approaching the house. She thought they were visitors, and opened the door to let them in. After they had mounted the steps one of them thrust a revolver in her face and ordered her to go into the house and get Mr. Beals' boy.

She was so thoroughly frightened, she said, that she obeyed the order, scarcely knowing what she was doing.

When she took the boy to the door the men wrapped a shawl about her head, carried her down the driveway to a carriage at the gate, thrust her into the cab, drove her about for some time and then turned her adrift.

Her story does not hold water at all, and she does not attempt to explain its many discrepancies.

The police ascertained partially the identity of the kidnapers. They learned from the letters found in "Lizzie Smith's" trunk that she had been recently in Denver. From the Denver police it was learned that she and the man Albert King, who passes for her husband, had been released from a penitentiary in Colorado on August 13 last, after serving a term of five years for horse stealing.

The Denver police say they are a pair of well-known crooks. Up to a late hour neither King nor the other accomplice in the crime had been arrested. The police have hopes that they may place their hands upon them. They were known in Denver under the aliases of Dennis, Spinole and Smith.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

A Manager Takes Up His Abode In Lands Across the Sea.

New York, Nov. 28.—Ernest A. Jurgens, ex-manager of the Eden Musee, who, in company with his assistant, F. M. Reynolds, was forced to resign his position some time ago under charges of alleged defalcation, has fled the country.

Manager Crane, who succeeded Jurgens, said last night that Jurgens had skipped and that his defalcations would amount to $15,000 or in that neighborhood.

F. M. Reynolds, who was alleged by Jurgens to be involved in the matter, is still in the city. He denied all charges of dishonesty on his part and said that he would make a statement at the meeting of the Musee directors, which occurs next month.

PIONEER MENTION.

Splendid Services Held in the M. E. Church—Accident to the Stage Coach.

Pioneer, Nov. 28.—(Special)—Union services were held in the M. E. church Thanksgiving day. Rev. Smith, of the U. B. church, preached a good sermon, Rev. Beardsley, Baptist; Rev. Dr. Stout, Congregationalist, and Rev. Colgan, Methodist, assisting in the service.

The singing, aided by organ and cornet, was well rendered.

The topic for the evening service in the same church was, "An Evening of Praise Among the Psalms." It was prepared and conducted by the pastor.

The hack, on its trip last Wednesday from Bryan to Pioneer, went down with a broken axle four miles below here. The passengers were: John Harley, Doc. "King" and Mrs. Rev. Colgan, of Pioneer; Mr. Close, of Oberlin, O., and Miss Ellen Marsh, of Ransom, Mich.

None were hurt and all arrived safely in town, after dark, in a lumber wagon, and were ready for their Thanksgiving dinner next day, thankful that it was no worse.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Money is Easy and Collections Good.

Exports on the Increase—A Large Balance in Favor of the States on the Balance Sheets.

New York, Nov. 28.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: A week broken by a holiday has shown the usual characteristics—weak speculation, active retail trade and moderate wholesale business. But the great factors which go to make national prosperity are unaltered.

Speculation during the past week has not been active here, but a corner at Chicago has put up corn for immediate delivery 6 cents, and pork is 25 cents higher, oats 1 1-8 and wheat 5-8 cents per bushel higher, while cotton and sugar are heavy.

The receipts of cotton exceed those of the same week last year by 50,000 bales, and the exports by 92,000 bales, but the stocks in this country are 521,000 bales larger. Wheat receipts at the west continue at the rate of more than 8,000,000 bushels for the full week, and exports have been 1,300,000 bushels of wheat along from Atlantic ports for three days of the present week. Corn is coming forward fairly, and after November a sharp decline in price is expected. Oil and coffee show no considerable change. The volume of speculation in most lines is fortunately so restricted that legitimate business and the movement of products are not at present embarrassed.

Money is comparatively easy and collections generally fair. The exports of products in four weeks at New York have exceeded last year's by $7,461,482 in value, indicating an aggregate for the month probably exceeding $5,000,000, and at the same time there is a decrease of 10 per cent. in value of imports. There is certain to be a very large balance payable on merchandise accounts by Europe, and much anxiety appears in some quarters as to how the strain should be met, but thus far there are no signs of real trouble except in speculative quarters. It is to be remembered, also, that this country is at present unusually independent of foreign disasters or disturbances.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the past seven days number 297, as compared with totals of 285 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 249.

YOUNG FIELD INSANE.

A Sensation in the Business World.

A Son of Cyrus W. Unable to Conduct His Business and an Assignment Is Made.

New York, Nov. 28.—Edward M. Field, Daniel A. Lindley, John Frederick Weichers and Herman C. Helmus, composing the firm of Field, Lindley, Weichers & Co., bankers and brokers at No. 1 Broadway, assigned yesterday to Charles W. Gould without preference.

The failure was announced on the produce exchange at noon, but the grain markets were only slightly affected. The house is an old one, but latterly has been somewhat restricted in its dealings.

The failure is attributed to the advance in corn here and at Chicago. It had been protecting some large lines of corn from the S. V. White deals, had been on the short side of the November market, and a few days ago had to cover 500,000 bushels. Their operations were mainly in Chicago but to some extent here. Other articles have gone against them, it is said, especially coffee.

Assignee Gould, when seen at the firm's office, said: "The assignment was made for this reason: Edward M. Field, the senior member of the firm, has apparently gone distracted. His illness resembles incipient paresis, and is due to overwork and the great responsibility resting upon him as the manager of the finances of the firm. His mother died last Monday, and this event seemed to bring to a climax his mental trouble, which some of his friends had detected two years ago. A physician told me a few days ago that Mr. Field was not right in his mind.

"Mr. Field having the sole management of the funds of the firm, it at once became necessary to get from him their condition. So I went in company with other members of the firm to his residence and tried to find out how things stood. We failed, however, to obtain from him any light on the situation, as his mind would continually stray away from the subject. We had undertaken a hopeless task. The assignment then became imperative in order to protect the firm and its customers."

A FAILURE.

More years ago than I shall name
I sought to win a good wife's fame,
I knew not how—but all the same
I made a shirt.

I cut, I stitched, with many a tear,
Hollowed it out, both front and rear;
I carved the armholes wide, for fear
They wouldn't fit.

John's neck I measured to be true,
The band must fit—that much I knew,
I'd heard so oft. All else I drew
And puckered in.

At last 'twas done. A work of art,
Complete, I hoped, in every part.
"Come, John," I called, with quaking heart,
"Try on your shirt."

I must confess it bulged somewhat
In places where I thought 't should not,
But John, the brute, yelled out: "Great Scott!
"Is this a tent?"

And such behavior—language, well!
He uttered things I'll never tell—
I may forget them when I dwell
In higher spheres.

O, woman of the present day,
To you's inscribed this tiny lay,
You little know the man you pay
Your homage to.

If his "true inwardness" you'd know,
Have him your idols overthrow,
And sentiment to four winds blow,
Make him a shirt.

QUITE RIGHT.

The time has come when people ought to stop talking about the world's fair as a Chicago show. It is an American enterprise. If it be a well-organized and wholly creditable exhibit of the industries of the modern world the nation will profit by it. If it be a failure the nation will be disgraced in the sight of all Christendom. Chicago is entitled to the ungrudging and energetic support of every state in the union in the business of making the fair worthy in all respects of the American people.

A cough, cold, or sore throat should not be neglected. Brown's Bronchial Troches are a simple remedy, and give prompt relief. 25 cents a box.

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

At Wheeler's and the People's To-Night and Next Week.

The Clemenceau Case—Bostonians Monday Night—The Still Alarm—An Evening With the Minstrels.

La Czarina was again presented at Wheeler's last evening to an audience that should have been much larger. The severity of the weather had undoubtedly much to do with the slim attendance. Rhea is a favorite in Toledo, and will always have a cordial welcome here. The presentation last evening was as thorough as if the house had been packed, and the company deserves credit accordingly.

The Clemenceau Case.

Wm. A. Brady's elegant company, headed by Sybil Johnstone, the original "Iza," will present the "Clemenceau Case" at Wheeler's at the matinee and to-night. The story of the "Clemenceau Case" is that of an impoverished, eccentric and worldly Polish countess, who leaves St. Petersburg at the request of the authorities, establishes herself in a flat in Paris. She has a beautiful daughter, sixteen years old, by whose means she hopes to win her way to wealth and luxury. She attends a dance in the salon of an artist, with her daughter dressed as a page. A young sculptor there falls in love with the beautiful girl. In spite of her mother's desire that she should wed a wealthy Russian count, who has been in love with her, she eventually becomes the wife of the young sculptor. She apparently gives all of her affection to her husband and poses as a model for a statue that is to make his name famous. The unfortunate man accidentally discovers his wife's intrigues, kills her lover and drives her away. He is afterwards induced to go to her house. She refuses to fly with him, and he kills her. This brief outline sketch will give an idea of the character of the play. It is decidedly French in tone, and yet if all that is said of it be true, it is no more improper than "Camille," which has long been regarded as a standard play of its kind. The company which will appear here is the same that gave the play in Boston and New York, which caused so much sensational talk. Miss Sybil Johnstone will appear as "Iza," the young wife.

The Bostonians

Appear at Wheeler's on Monday night. The advance sale has been large. Richard Nevelle, in the New York Commercial Advertiser, has this to say of the attraction:

There is no mistaking the impression that "Robin Hood" made on the large and critical audience drawn to the Standard theater to hear the Bostonians produce the opera of "Robin Hood." From the time the curtain went up on the first act until it fell at the close, those who came to see and hear held their places. The success was magical; it was a clear out triumph and won on intrinsic merits, and the excellent singing and acting were in perfect harmony with the stage work. There was at no time, as is too frequently noticeable, on the part of any one in the cast, to get outside the stage pictures and stand alone. All lent their best energies in their way to act and sing, and they succeeded well.

In every department of their stage work the Bostonians are to be congratulated. "Robin Hood" was the vehicle to introduce them to New York, and Robin did the work well. It scored a triumph itself and placed the Bostonians on the list of attractions that from this forth will be welcomed annually to contribute their energy for the amusement of the metropolis.

The work of the company is so much superior to what has been given to the public of late; it is so distinct and characteristic in the musical treatment and story telling, and it is so entirely different because there is purpose, method and consistency prevailing from the polyglot kind of light or comic or eccentric opera we have been treated to in so many instances, that "Robin Hood" is welcome, and the Bostonians' work is doubly welcome on that score. The verdict of New York is that the Bostonians have made a tremendous success.

The Still Alarm

Will be at the People's all of next week, and promises to be the event of the season. Says the New York World: "'The Still Alarm' has struck the exact mean of excellence, which is demanded by the great army of theater goers. It has the merit of directness, unpretentious vigor of action, and withal, simplicity of speech. The most pronounced popular success since 'Under the Gaslight.' It is a part of the history of the American stage. We congratulate Mr. Joseph Arthur, its author."

"I'll catch him at the bottom of the stairs, and I'll kill him."

Primrose and West's Minstrels

Will be the attraction at Wheeler's next Thursday. Primrose and West are well known here and never fail to pack Wheeler's. Last season Manager Brady tells the Bee they played to one of the largest houses of the season, and he expects fully as big this season, as the show is all new. The company is at the Columbia theater, Chicago, this week, and the following is taken from the Herald of Nov. 23:

"The minstrel companies headed by Primrose and West have never failed to give a bright and pleasing entertainment, with some novel features and old ones so glossed over and newly dressed as to be almost equal to new. The organization which began a week's engagement at the Columbia last night was no exception to the rule. The first part was handsomely set, and from the 'Columbia' overture to the finale was enjoyable. Vocally the company is exceptionally good. The solo of F. W. Oakland, "Little Darling, Now Good-Bye," and the singing of the sextet, Messrs. Oakland, Natus, Weber, Garland, Thompson and Reynolds, was warmly applauded. George Primrose's "swell" impersonation was decidedly clever.

In the olio there were a number of good features. A sketch called "Sim Dempsey's Visit" and the eccentric dancing of J. M. Janson, Primrose and Larry Dooley were laughable. Drummond and Stahley do a novel musical act: the "March of the Red Hussars," headed by W. T. West, was excellently done, and the acrobatic and contortion feats of the Bovain brothers were astonishing. The afterpiece by the Big Four, called "Trouble in Blackville," was the only tiresome feature of the bill."

The sale of seats opens Tuesday next.

A COLUMN OF SMILES.

Officer C. O. White has lately been put on the Twenty-sixth street beat, which includes Puyallup avenue. White is a fearless officer, and the other night, as he was making his beat along Puyallup avenue in a deep shade close to the side of a building he descried the form of what he supposed to be a hobo taking a snooze. Of course that would never do, so with a preliminary whirl of his club, a little cough and a perceptible heightening of his stature he approached the hobo.

"Come alang out o' that neow, will oo?" he exclaimed.

The hobo moved not so much as a muscle.

"D'ye hear me? I sayed coom alang out o' thot, will oo? Yez won't, eh? Wull, I'll show yez."

With that White grabbed the supposed hobo by the back of the neck. There was a short preliminary growl, the clanking of a chain, and then the fur fairly flew. It was the pet black bear of the Union club saloon that White had awakened. For about twenty-five minutes there was a little of the liveliest scrapping match there or thereabouts that has ever been known in police circles, and when White got out of reach of the cub he was minus a brand new mackintosh, a $5 hat, the sleeves of his uniform and his breath, and he was plus numerous wounds and scratches, bruises and black spots. And to cap the climax the young bruin stood guard over his handcuffs, his gun and his club.—Tacoma News.

Following Copy Literally.

The Epoch tells this story of Edwin Booth: "In Detroit he once took a fancy that he would no longer be advertised as 'Mr. Booth.' 'Go to the printers,' he said to his managers, 'and tell them to put simple Edwin Booth on the handbills and posters.' I did as I was told, and explained to the foreman of the printing office that Mr. Booth wished simple Edwin Booth put wherever his name occurred in the copy. What was my astonishment and Ted's horror next day when all the big boards were placarded with the cast of 'The Apostate,' headed by Pescara, Simple Edwin Booth. When I went to the printer to raise Cain I was informed that the bill had been set up strictly in accordance with my instructions and that it was a printer's business to follow copy even if it took him out of the window."

Moral—Never Procrastinate.

"Did yer father lick yer, Jimmie?"

"Yep."

"Did yer put the jography in yer pants?"

"Yep."

"Ther what yer cryin' fur?"

"Ah-h-h—I didn't have time to get me pants on—boo-hoo!"—Puck.

Feminine Pride.

The wife of an employe of the Pennsylvania railroad gave a very amusing exhibition of family pride in a dry goods store a few days ago. Her husband is a very tall, thin man; the chest measure of his clothing is very small, and when he buys underclothing he gets the smallest sizes. His wife is a large woman. She had gone into a store to purchase underclothing for her husband, and while standing at the counter examining the goods a little bit of a woman came in and, seeing the goods being displayed, said:

"That is what I want; some undershirts for my husband. No. 38, please."

"What number will you have?" asked the salesman, addressing the first woman.

"No. 38, please," was the reply.

The two women bought the same size garment, one buying for a big-chested and the other for a narrow-chested man. When the latter took her purchase home and displayed it to her husband he was astonished to find the shirts so big. He said:

"What the —— did you buy such big shirts for?"

"Because."

"Well, because what? I can't wear them."

"I don't care. I was not going to stand alongside of a little bit of a woman and buy shirts for a little bit of a man when she was buying shirts for a great big one. If you haven't any pride I have; that's why I bought the big shirts."—Wilmington News.

Didn't Reciprocate.

Said a New York boy to his father: "Pa, what makes you look so angry?"

"I look angry because I am vexed at hearing your mother scold you so much for your badness."

"Well, pa, you should do as I do. I hear ma scolding you for your badness forty times a day, but I never remind you of it, for I always think you have been punished enough already."

A Chilling Reception.

"What did you do on earth?" asked Saint Peter of the latest arrival.

"I owned several flat houses, and lived off the income from them."

"The I'm afraid you wouldn't be happy in heaven. You see, we take children here. Please step into the elevator. It is about to go down."—Puck.

Not the Conservatory.

Young Lady—The Musical Conservatory is in this building, isn't it?

Janitor—No, mum; the Musical Conservatory is 'bout two blocks down street.

Young Lady (doubtingly)—I—I was sure I heard pupils practicing vocal exercises. Are you sure the Musical Conservatory is not here?

Janitor—Yes'm. Nothin' here but dentists' offices, mum.—New York Weekly.

Their Value.

"What is in the package?" asked the clerk at the express office, proceeding to fill out a blank.

"Old letters," replied the young woman.

"Value?" mechanically inquired the clerk.

"Fifty thousand dollars."

And the plaintiff in the breach of promise case of Joone against De Cember, who had just remitted a batch of documents to her lawyer, walked out of the express office with a vivid but businesslike gleam in her eye.—Chicago Tribune.

An Important Event.

Sunday School Teacher—Now, children, we must bear in mind that between our last week's lesson and this quite a period of time is represented as having elapsed. During this time a very important event has taken place. Yes, Annie (noticing a little girl at the end of the class smiling knowingly), you may tell us what it is."

"We've all got our winter hats."

Tragedy.

He—Why are you so sad, darling?

She—I was just thinking, dearest, that this was the last evening we could be together till to-morrow.—Life.

Miserly.

The N. P. Goodell Wrecked on Lake Erie.

The Oswegatchie's Awful Night in the Storm.

Bravery of Captain Balentine, of the Elfinmere, Was All That Saved the Crew from Watery Graves.

Alpena, Nov. 28.—On Wednesday at twilight the barge Oswegatchie, of Algonac, in command of Capt. Shafer, steamed majestically out of the river into the cool, blue waters of Thunder Bay. She had in tow the barges W. H. Potter, A. J. McBrier and N. P. Goodell, in the order named.

They took the course for Saginaw Bay and made splendid time as far as Oscoda. At this point a mild south wind was blowing and everything seemed favorable for crossing the bay in safety. They headed for Point Aux Barques.

Scarcely were they well out on the bay when the wind shifted to the southwest and began to blow a gale, increasing continually. They attempted to get under the lee of Point Aux Barques, but made no headway; to ascertain with truth they threw over a bunch of lath, and, to their consternation, found that they were being driven before the wild storm.

The only thing to be done was to turn back and seek shelter on this side of the bay. In turning about the tow line between the McBrier and Goodell snapped as if of wrapping cord, and she was gone instantly. The line parted between the Potter and the McBrier, and the latter was left to fight the raging tempest alone. The Oswegatchie sprang a leak about 6:30 a. m., but hung fast to the Potter until they came abreast of Sturgeon Point, at which time it was imperative to drop her.

Although all the pumps were vigorously worked, yet the water rose continually in the hold, and eagerly they looked for a harbor of safety. Valiantly the firemen stood in the water, cold as ice, up to their waists, only to see it rise higher and still higher until the last coal was extinguished and they were totally disabled and at the mercy of the merciless waves.

A signal of distress was raised, the deck load of lumber was thrown overboard, the yawl boats were made ready and a season of earnest waiting and watching commenced. Two hours slowly crept on, when they were sighted by the barge Elfinmere, in command of Capt. Balentine.

Immediately he bore down upon them to render assistance if possible, and, although the sea was running high, still Capt. Balentine ordered his tow to be dropped, and for two hours labored to get off the ill-fated crew. Each one had to jump for his life, as the Elfinmere lapped the quarter of the Oswegatchie. Success at last crowned Balentine's efforts, and picking up his tows he arrived safely at Alpena.

Mate Marsillot said: I have sailed the salt and fresh waters for over thirty years, but never in my career did I see such bravery as was shown by Capt. Balentine in picking us off, and it is to him that we owe our lives." He said further: "The last I saw of the Goodell her sails were all blown away, and she was nearly on her beam ends, flying signals of distress. Her yawl boats, as well as those of the McBrier, were washed away, and her deck load of lumber was gone. We were unable to give her any assistance as the sea was too heavy, and then, too, we had all we could do to care for ourselves, for we were leaking badly. Anyway, no boat could have rendered aid at such a time."

The steward of the Elfinmere said: "The last I saw of the Goodell she was bottom side up and drifting before the wind."

The Goodell was commanded by Capt. Horatio Jex, of Port Huron, and had on board his wife and two children, besides four sailors whose names are unknown, all of whom have found an unmarked and watery grave.

The Potter, when dropped by the Oswegatchie, shaped her course for North Point, and when last seen was apparently doing well. Still all day long the Garden City has been in search of her, and last night returned without any tidings, Capt. Frank Reves, of the lost steambarge, was one of the searching party, and he says: "I am confident in my own mind that we shall never see her again. When I last saw her her deck load was slipping away and she seemed to be laboring hard, although she was making good headway. Yes, sir, we visited the Oswegatchie, and I was aboard of her. Her bows stand straight up, fully twenty feet out of water. Her cabin, mast, and, in fact, everything is washed away except her bulwarks. We have abandoned her. It would cost more to put her in shape again than she is worth. She is floating in 210 feet of water and about twenty-five miles from this port."

The McBrier is the only one of the four barges that weathered the gale and came out unscathed. This was partly due to the cool-headedness of the captain, who chained on his deckload and went before the wind. She is safely moored in the bay. The barges, together with their cargoes, were partly insured.

Found the Wreck.

Alpena, Mich., Nov. 28.—The fish tug Maxwell came in last night and reported the finding of the schooner Goodell, of the Oswegatchie tow, safe on Big Reef, 37 miles below Thunder bay light. She is in good condition, but all of her canvas is gone. It is probable that her crew of seven have been taken off by some passing vessel. Part of the deck load of lumber had been burned, showing that the crew had set it on fire for the purpose of calling help. Nothing has been heard from the schooner W. H. Potter, another of the Oswegatchie's tow.

FELL UNDER THE WHEELS.

A Michigan Central Freight Conductor Meets Death at the Wagon Works.

A freight conductor on the Michigan Central railroad, named Gustave A. Shafer, met a horrible death at the Wagon Works yesterday afternoon. His train arrived at the Wagon Works and Shafer started to the telegraph office to get his orders. In doing so he crossed a train passing on the siding, and losing his balance, fell between two cars, the wheels of several passing over his body, cutting both of his legs off at the hips. His fellow trainmen tenderly carried the mangled body to a house near by, and dispatched a messenger for a physician. Before medical aid arrived the unfortunate man was dead.

The deceased was 22 years of age, unmarried, and lived at Wayne, Mich. The sad news was telegraphed to his parents at once.

SHE SEEKS DAMAGES

For Alienating the Affections of Her Husband.

In the common pleas court to-day was filed a suit for damages by Mrs. Bertha Klotz against John C. and Sarah Klotz for alienating the affections of her husband, Solon Klotz, assistant superintendent of mail carriers in the Toledo postoffice.

Mrs. Bertha Klotz was formerly clerk in the postoffice registry department under Postmaster Lorenz. About a year ago she married Klotz, who was then, as now, an employe of the postoffice. In a suit for divorce which she has commenced she alleges that he began abusing her, and in the present suit, in which she claims $10,000 damages, she complains that her husband's father and mother have circulated vile and slanderous reports about her, thus alienating the affections of her husband.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SOLD

By the Sheriff to Satisfy a Claim of $106,000.

The Chamber of Commerce building was sold to-day at sheriff's sale to the Pennsylvania Life Insurance company of Philadelphia at $100,100, two-thirds of the appraisement.

The property was sold to satisfy a claim of the Pennsylvania Life Insurance company instituted in common pleas court against John B. Carson et al., in the sum of $106,000.

TOWED INTO PORT.

Stormy Time Had by the Schooner Ebenezer.

Frankfort, Nov. 28.—Last Wednesday the schooner Ebenezer, owned by Durgeon & Co., of Chicago, left Manistee with a full cargo of shingles, and was towed into this port yesterday in a bad condition.

These facts were given by the captain: Off Point Au Sable they encountered a heavy gale, and the shifting of the deck load split her side open and in a few minutes she was full of water and beyond control.

For 48 hours the heavy seas broke over the helpless crew, they having scanty clothing, and nothing to eat. The crew consisted of Capt. Sevang, Mate J. Hanson, L. Anderson, O. Hanson and O. L. Anderson. The mate froze his hands and feet, and the steward his feet.

The crew abandoned her at 6 o'clock yesterday morning off Point Betsie and started ashore in their yawl. They were met by the Betsie life-saving crew, who took charge of the schooner, sending to this port for a tug. The captain states that had not the life crew assisted them the schooner would have been lost; and besides, two of the frozen crew would have perished. It is not known at present what their intentions are. The vessel and cargo were not insured. She had 7,300,000 shingles, one-half of which were lost.

THEIR POWDER IS WET.

Republicans Afraid to Take Hold of the Brice Case.

They Take the Advice of Senator Sherman and Conclude Not to Make Asses of Themselves.

Columbus, Nov. 28.—(Special)—Fourteen of the twenty-one members of the republican state committee met here last night and listened to Senator Sherman's letter telling them that Senator Brice would be sworn in and that if the republicans of Ohio wanted him ousted they would have to take the responsibility on their own shoulders.

After a long consultation in which the members thought much as does Senator Sherman, a resolution was adopted providing for the employment by the committee of Hon. Geo. K. Nash of Columbus as an attorney to investigate the legal points involved, to secure evidence if possible, and to consult with Hon. John Sherman.

If the facts obtained justified it, the chairman of the state committee is to reconvene that body before December 4. Politicians consider the meeting and this action as emphatic indorsements of the position taken by Senator Sherman.

FREMONT'S GREAT LOSS.

Citizens to Hold the Carbon Works if Possible.

Ex-President Hayes in Favor of Bonding the Town in Order to Keep the Works in the Place.

Fremont, Nov. 28.—(Special)—The town will be full of insurance men Monday to adjust the loss of the Carbon works.

It is estimated by the directors that $25,000 worth of material is uninjured, this includes a row of ovens, smoke stacks, gas and water pipes and the engine and boiler.

Every effort is being made to induce the company to rebuild elsewhere. Several towns offer a bonus of $50,000. President Richmond says that the works must be rebuilt somewhere at once.

He also states that the works will be doubled and will employ about four hundred men.

They were about to enlarge at the time the fire took place.

Gen. R. B. Hayes informed the Bee this morning that the company will stay here for $25,000. He is strongly in favor of bonding the city for that amount.

His son, Webb, is one of the heavy stockholders. Several other stockholders were interviewed and all favor the proposition.

Steps will immediately be taken by the citizens in regard to the matter. The city cannot afford to let the works rebuild elsewhere.

A NOTED ACTOR DYING.

Disappointed in Love and Business, Nelson Decker Attempts Suicide.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—Once the friend of Booth, and a popular and respected actor, Nelson Decker, now an object of charity, lies dying in his room at the Edwin Forrest Home at Holmesburg, after a determined effort early Tuesday morning to end his clouded existence.

It was soon after the breakfast hour when one of the servants, patrolling the upper hallway, peered into the actor's room, the door of which was half ajar, and saw him lying upon the floor unconscious. A razor by his side and wounds in his throat and wrist told the story. Physicians were immediately summoned and succeeded in patching up his injuries, but they would hold out no hope of his recovery.

AN ENTERPRISING COMPANY.

The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, of Milwaukee, in pushing for increased business in northwestern Ohio, has appointed Mr. Charles E. Bronson, of Defiance, special agent for the counties of Defiance, Paulding and Henry. Mr. Bronson is the best man for the place in that locality, being thoroughly posted on the subject of life insurance and being an untiring worker. The company is to be congratulated upon its wise selection.

We were there, of course.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES.

The O. Y. C. Gives Thanks and Entertains

A Brilliant Assemblage at Its Handsome Quarters—The First Week of December Will Be a Busy One.

The Ohio Yacht club returned thanks offering last evening in a manner that was thoroughly appreciated by those who were so fortunate as to be present. The handsome quarters in Findlay Place were beautifully decorated, and the entertainment throughout was worthy of the occasion and of the club.

An excellent specialty program was arranged. Prof. Stackhouse opened the musical performance with an overture, and was followed by Bert Burget in a clever song and dance.

"The Night Maloney Landed in New York" was delightfully given by Miss Goldie Burbank, and in response to an emphatic encore she sang "Mrs. Grogan's Baby."

Gibsone and Evans gave an amusing presentation of the black-skirted seance, and the club's trio of funny men, O'Brien, Pixley and Burget, were at home in songs and dances that seemed to catch the crowd.

A dainty repast followed the theatrical entertainment, and Commodore Bills, in the name of the club, welcomed the visitors and guests.

Dancing began shortly after 10 o'clock and was kept up until after midnight. The music was furnished by the orchestra of the People's theater, and the young people had a delightful time. The entertainment was voted by all the success of the season.

The New Century Club.

At the home of Judge and Mrs. Lemmon last evening, the New Century Club held a very profitable meeting. In absense of the president, Judge Lemmon presided, Mrs. Rosa L. Segur being secretary pro tem. The inclement weather did not prevent a fair attendance, and all enjoyed the thoughtful paper on "Municipal Government," by Mr. George P. Kirby.

The writer, after quoting from disheartening accounts of the alleged failure of American municipal governments, which have from time to time filled the columns of magazine and journalistic literature during the last five years, admitted underlying truths in these writings, but believed them greatly exaggerated. Taking an optimistic view he proceeded to examine the causes on which such statements are based, how far they are actually true, and suggested remedies for their cure.

The paper was a practical epitome of ideas on municipal relations, well worthy the consideration of all dwellers in cities, and deserving of public attention in studies of municipal literature. It was discussed pro and con by Judge Lemmon, Professor Friedburg, Rev. A. G. Jennings, Mr. Kirby, Captain Bateman, Mrs. Segur and Mrs. Fray.

The paper at the next meeting, December 11, will be given by Mrs. A. P. Stevens, under title "A Government Machine or a Free People," when the club will meet with Mesdames Segur and Fray, 916 Broadway.

The Ys' Meeting.

The Ys held their regular business meeting yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Congregational church parlors. Four new names were added to the list of membership, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. France, Miss Snell and Miss Jordan. Miss Jennie Stewart gave an exceedingly interesting talk on the late convention held in Boston, and gave the society many new ideas. Miss Adams, the blind lady, who is working hard to procure the scholarship in the Boston Conservatory of Music by getting subscribers for a temperance paper, was present at the meeting and gave an interesting talk. After making arrangements for the entertainment to be given December 11 and 12 the meeting was adjourned until December 27.

Toledo Camera Club.

To further the interests of the club, and to elevate the art of amateur photography, the Toledo Camera club have arranged a prize contest of winter scenes, to begin December 15 and close March 1. The contest will be divided into two classes—45x5 and 5x7—and over work will be judged by prints. Prizes will be on exhibition at club rooms at next monthly meeting. Every member is expected to participate.

Corn Supper at St. Mark's.

A corn supper will be given by the ladies of St. Mark's church Monday evening, in the prettily decorated parlors of the church, for the benefit of the St. Mark's Aid society. After everyone has partaken of the product of corn in all forms, each guest will be weighed and given a certificate of his or her weight.

Next Week's Meetings.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toledo Suffrage society will be held on Wednesday afternoon, room 9, Fort Industry block. An interesting meeting is anticipated, and members of the society will invite their friends to be present.

On Friday afternoon, from 4 o'clock to 5:30, the Woman's Colloquial club will listen to and discuss a paper by Miss Emily S. Bouton. These delightfully informal meetings are open to all women interested in the questions of the day.

The regular monthly meeting of the Union of Unions will be held next Thursday afternoon in the Central Congregational church. As the delegates to the world's and national conventions, Mrs. Frances J. Sumner and Mrs. Louise Eck, will be present to report, it will be a more than usually interesting meeting.

The Catholic Literary society meets in the Hubbard block next Thursday evening. Election of officers will be part of the routine business.

The monthly meeting of the directors of the Humane society occurs next Tuesday evening.

The Day Nursery circle is in session this afternoon.

The Ladies' union of Dr. Jenning's church meets with Mrs. D. G. Saltonstall, Washington street, next Friday afternoon.

NATURAL TELEPHONE LINE.

Remarkable Discovery Made by an Exploring Party in South Dakota.

Rapid City, S. D., Nov. 28.—There appears to be a natural telephone line between two mountains in the Black Hill range.

On each side of an intervening valley 12 miles in width stand two peaks which tower above the other mountains and have long been known as landmarks, being called the twin peaks.

These mountains are fully 10,000 feet high and at least 4,000 feet above the range.

Only on rare occasions have these peaks been ascended, and but little was known of their topography.

Some weeks ago a party of tourists determined to make the ascent, and, forming into two parties, one for each peak, they took apparatus for signaling and expected to have pleasure and amusement by flashing the heliograph code across the intervening space, to the mystification of the people of the valley.

The ascent was made and while the people were making arrangements to signal across one of the party on the north mountain was surprised to hear voices which apparently came from the air. He moved about and the sound was no longer heard.

By changing his position several times he discovered that at a certain spot on the mountain he could hear the voices, and it was not long before he found that they proceeded from the party on the other mountain.

He called the attention of the others to the phenomena and then they attracted the notice of the party on the south mountain and found that a conversation in an ordinary tone of voice was plainly heard from one mountain to another.

There was only one place on each mountain where it could be heard, and it appeared to be a natural telephone. No shouting was necessary, and the words were perfectly distinct.

MODERN MIRACLES.

What is Being Accomplished by Progressive, Thinking Men in Their Chosen Profession.

The artistic productions at the dental emporium of Harlan & Anderson, corner of St. Clair and Adams streets, is one of the most striking innovations in modern dentistry. All their processes are new and original, having left the old stereotyped methods to the antiquarian and the quack.

All the world has been wanting what they have at last produced—perfect work at a reasonable fee. Their bridge work is free from the objections that militate against the old method. Their wonderful veneer work is the greatest boon ever discovered to sensitive, nervous people. It obviates all the pain attendant on filling teeth, as it does away entirely with drilling, cutting, boring and the nasty rubber dam. It takes but a few moments to adjust them, and when in place positively prevents further decay.

Clasp work is another of their specialties. Instead of a foul, ill-fitting rubber plate they offer a small, light, strong denture, so closely adapted to the mouth that you cannot displace it by chewing, biting, coughing or sneezing. It is the only thing of its kind ever produced, and they control the method exclusively.

The removable clasp bridge work is perhaps the acme of the dental art, as it has all the advantages of the fixed bridge work and none of its objections; and the fee is but little above ordinary plate work. This they are also the inventors of and control exclusively.

Aluminum has long been looked on with a wistful eye, but until Drs. Harlan & Anderson perfected their refining method for making it absolutely 100 per cent. pure, it never came into general use. As made by them it is the most desirable cheap plate made, and as they are the original projectors of this special plate, they claim they are better prepared to successfully introduce it than others.

The gold crowns, gold plates, porcelain crowns and zylonite, and plates as made by them, are the highest productions of artistic skill. The engravings illustrate a few of their specialties. Only the most perfect work is allowed by this firm, and all that is cheap, shoddy and inferior is carefully and conscientiously eliminated from their practice. Last, but not least, is their wonderful local anaesthetic, or pain obtruder—KUDJYAR. It is positively affirmed by the doctors that this is the most powerful agent known as well as the safest, for the successful extracting and filling of teeth.

The gentlemen are determined to undo the impression that has been made on the public by the quack and the fakir, that a reasonable fee means inferior work, by giving the highest quality of dental work possible, at a fee within the reach of all.

All their operations are done under a guarantee, and from the samples of their handicraft they are certainly far in advance of the dental profession, and if artistic work, conscience and skill count for anything they must certainly meet with success.

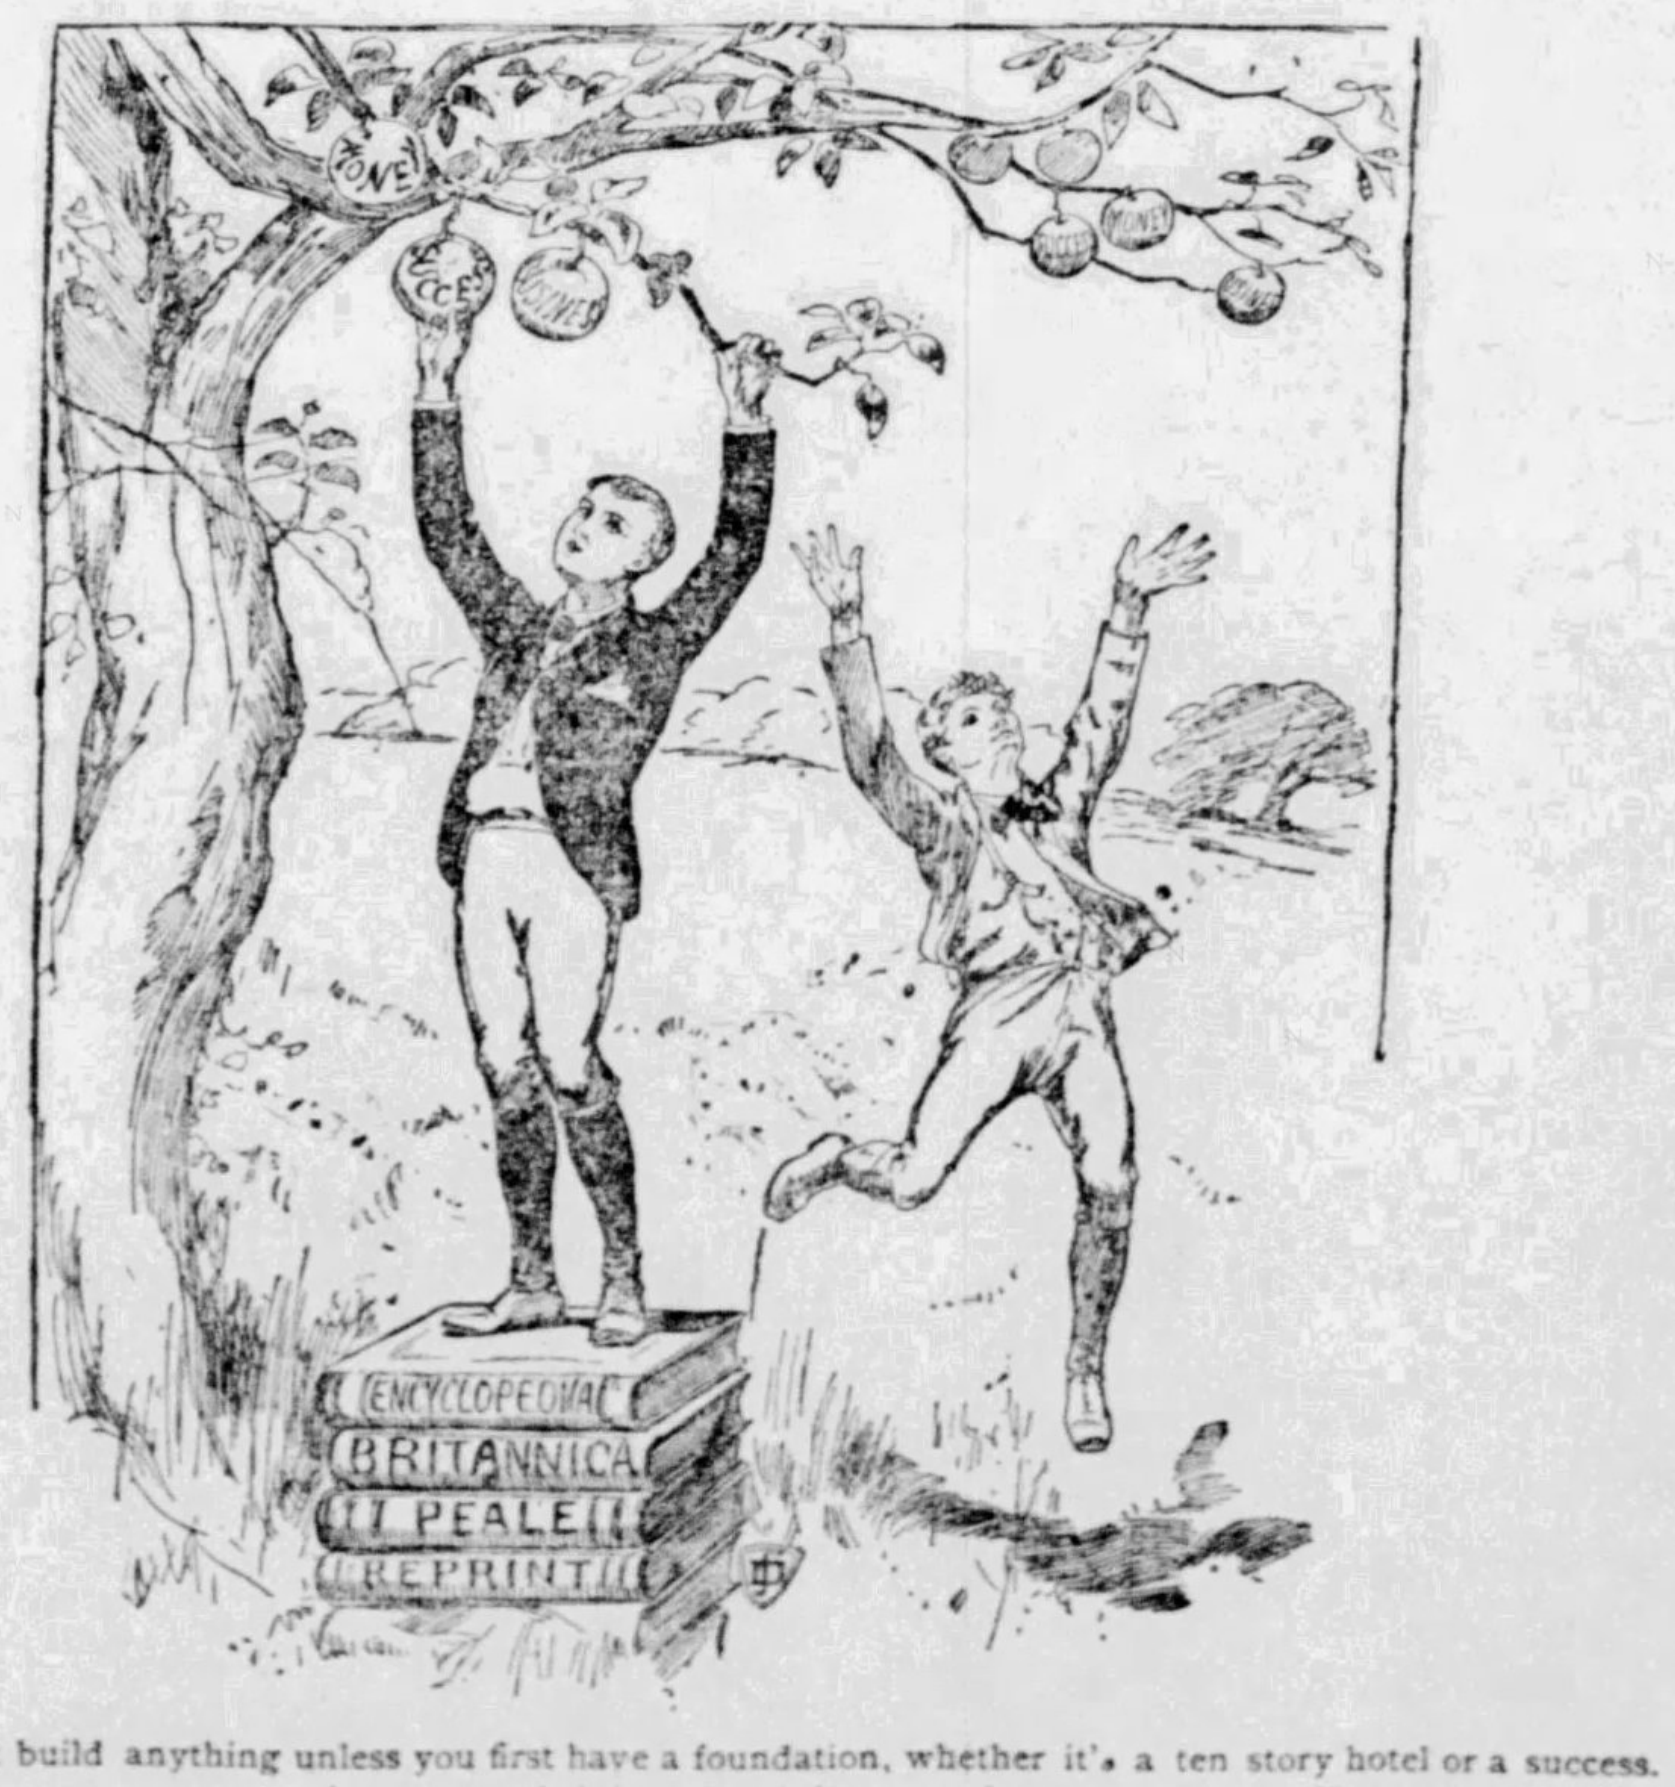
GIVE YOUR BOY A CHANCE.

A Boost in Life That Will Help Him and Won't Cost You Much.



You can't build anything unless you first have a foundation, whether it's a ten story hotel or a success. Neither a house nor a man can reach any great height unless it has something to stand on. You build a foundation for your home in order that your family may be protected. Now, is it not equally wise to build a foundation for a success for your children in order that their future, too, may be protected.

Education is the only sure foundation which will elevate character and brains to the height where their possessor can reach the fruit which nature intended should be his. The money of your neighbor can give his boy a college education; but it is not the teaching that a boy receives but the learning that counts in the race of life. You know it is the knowledge that you acquired by puzzling out problems yourself, and not that which was given you offhand by a perfunctory teacher that has stood you in good stead.

And because you cannot to-day afford to send your boy to college you need not fret, for a prize has been placed within your reach, which while retaining him within your own home circle away from any possibility of contaminating influence, gives him access to all the information that he could secure within college walls. The Encyclopedia Britannica is the learning of the world concentrated; it has all there is to a college education except the college buildings and the "larks of the students." This encyclopedia can be secured by you for your children free of cost. Is it not worth securing? May be you were a college man yourself. Then you'll find this encyclopedia a valuable aid in your life work. It is the surest stand that vaulting ambition can have.

TOLEDO, OHIO, NOVEMBER 1891.

Little Liberia, bound to be in fashion, is getting up a brisk rebellion of its own.

The canals of Ohio will have an able champion this winter in the person of Admiral Flickinger, who once was an old canal salt himeslf.

Mr. Griffin is now doing what he should have done immediately after election—"sawing wood and saying nothing." Perhaps he may yet be elected speaker.

Henry S. Hyde, he Massachusetts member of the national republican committee, states the situation in unique fashion: "If Blaine declines, Harrison will be nominated." That must be comforting assurance to the present incumbent of the white house.

Switzerland has had floods and short crops, and in common with other European states is suffering in consequence. A contemporary says, "another object lesson for low-tariff advocates." Brilliant argument! how about protected Germany and protected Russia?

It was rather an ominous admonition given by the Emperor of Germany to his soldiers that "they might have need of their courage in domestic conflicts." The lurid newspaper correspondents talk about a war in Germany like the struggle of 1870 in France.

Dom Pedro has been granted a pension by the Brazilian senate, amounting to $120,000 a year, with arrears dating from the day of his abdication, the arrearage to be paid at the rate of twenty-seven cents on the dollar, the rest to be paid from date in monthly installments. This will help the old Dom to bear his disappointment at not being recalled.

Fonseca retires to the island of Paqueta, a palm-covered bit of ground in the bay of Rio Janeiro. He wasn't president long enough to become very tired, but it was best for him to seek some sequestered spot. If Brazil keeps on it can start a small colony of deposed rulers somewhere, to which deposed rulers of other South American republics might be allowed to emigrate.

Strange enough, the superstitions that cling to us. In St. Louis a large, fine building has just been torn down because it was "hoodooed," and New York is warned not to say a word, but to remember the fate of the elegant residence where the Nathan murder was committed. Nobody believes in such nonsense; oh, no, but the fact is there are houses in nearly every community that have something fatal the matter with them. Sometimes a renovation, a coat of paint or a "lean-to" will break the spell.

Journalistic courtesy between the brethren of the republican organs in Ohio is geeting a bit strained. Brother Bickham, of the Dayton Journal, quotes as follows from the Toledo Blade:

"It would be interesting to know just how many country editors who are supporting Senator Sherman, are postmasters."

And replies:

"Not one, we venture, who was not always a sagacious republican. A few years hence when Foraker, McKinley or Foster is senator, some other cut-throat assassin will rise to ask the same question about them."

The New York Herald says "The West is pulling on the bit." Very good, the east has led the west by the nose about long enough. A man who has been racing back and forth across the continent warns the New Yorkers that "the western democrats' locomotive is on the track, headed for victory." There is no attempt at bulldozing by the western democracy. It simply means business and is dead in earnest. No east and west sectionalism is desired, nor will there be any except the east shall force it by its lordly domination and patronizing airs.

It is very doubtful if ex-Gov. Foraker will consent to the Sherman plan of having him step aside to take his chances in a contest for Senator Brice's seat in the senate. It is noticeable that this plan is of Sherman's invention, and that every republican Sherman paper is urging this procedure. They want Uncle John elected, without question, to be his own successor. Then a resolution declaring Brice's ineligibility will be adopted, followed by Foraker's election, and it will become his duty to make the contest. He would cut a very sorry figure in such a role in Washington, and would be the butt of the jokes and jeers of the whole country. It may be the method the jealous republicans of Ohio have of killing him "for sure" this time, but he is a bigger fool than even his enemies believe if he consents to this Sherman plan.

Murat Halstead cannot understand why democrats should celebrate the anniversary of Cleveland's famous tariff message of 1887, inasmuch as it materially aided in defeating him for re-election. Mr. Halstead is more obtuse than usual. That message has leavened the whole lump of democracy. It has united the party upon a distinctive issue from lake to gulf and from ocean to ocean. It may have been a little in advance of policy politics but it was timely for lasting politics. It was Henry Clay who said he would "rather be right than president," and it was Grover Cleveland who did right, and perhaps lost the presidency, but who placed his party in grand position to advance to victory which shall be lasting. That message will live longer in American history than any other presidential message, and the anniversary of its promulgation will in time be regarded as an event for national observance and patriotic keeping. The man and the message are too great in this age for politicians to successfully attack. The country it not yet done with Grover Cleveland.

The senatorial mountain commenced labor yesterday in Columbus. Dr. King, of Youngstown, is in charge of the patient. After a few weeks, and perhaps months, of effort the usual mole will be brought forth.

It is a solemn occasion. The republicans want to Mexicanize the United States senate long enough to steal Senator Brice's seat. This appears to be a Sherman movement to placate the Foraker contingent. It is significant that at the meeting of the republican central committee yesterday, those two stalwart Foraker fighters, Griffin and Squire, of Lucas county, were outspoken in condemning the whole scheme. They didn't believe a case could be made against Senator Brice or that he could be disturbed in his legal right to hold the seat to which he was elected by the general assembly of the State of Ohio. Here are two republican leaders who are not to be caught by Sherman taffy. The whole plot is exposed. It is a sly trick of John Sherman to get Foraker out of the way until after the senatorial caucus shall be held.

A POOR KIND OF THANKSGIVING.

It is a very strange kind of Christian Thanksgiving to bless the Lord that "while other people are starving and distressed, He has granted us especial bounty and favor." A person who cannot be thankful for good things unless he sees another in want needs to be put through the whole course of Christian training, from the primary room to the world's temple of humanity. Some newspapers have gotten so imbued with the spirit of selfishness in dealing with the trade relations of different countries, they unconsciously assume that the Lord gives favors to one people and curses to another. They affect to believe that the agents of the Ruler of the Universe are busy distributing drouth to some sections and floods to others. One of these pharisaical sheets remarks: "It is proper that each individual should return thanks for the blessings the country enjoys and to entreat their continuance, lest we receive the condemnation of the nations that forget God and have meted out to us a share in their punishment."

Just, perhaps, thanks like these do not rise above the roofs beneath which they are uttered. There is a growing belief that deeds speak louder than words, and that wordy entreaties spoken "lest favors shall be discontinued" are not of the most approved kind, even in the sight of man, saying nothing of the Deity, to whom they are addressed.

Does a nation "remember God" by arraying itself in phylacteries and saying stated prayers on stated occasions? Thoughtful persons might ask, how have we as a people remembered God? Review the history of our dealings with the Indians, for instance, and find any glory in that chapter of history if you can. Read the records of bribery, of grasping selfishness, of criminal abuse of power in places of trust, of falsehood and trickery, of the grinding of the poor by legalized methods; read these from pages of official records of investigations, and then sing very softly, oh, boastful pharisee, about thanking the Lord that we are not as other nations are, and that we are especially blessed because of our righteous deeds. Or assuming to teach that favors are showered upon us because we say loud orisons on the street corners, and wear pious faces at stated times, and in stated places. The Lord forgive such spirit in "thanksgivers."

THE RECENT STATE VOTE.

Those hypercritics who were so free with their opinions about the cause of the democratic defeat in Ohio would better give the official figures analytical inspection and then hide themselves in shame for basely maligning as sturdy a body of faithful democrats as live and work and vote anywhere in the United States.

The total vote at the November election in Ohio was 795,619, of which the democratic candidate for governor received 365,228. This is 6,000 votes more than George Hoadly received when he defeated J. B. Foraker. Only six times in the history of Ohio did a democratic candidate receive more votes than Mr. Campbell at the recent election. The analysis of the vote shows that in 67 counties the democrats lost 17,694 and that in the same 67 counties the people's party cast 16,736 votes. That shows where the democratic vote went. On the contrary, the republicans lost 5,429 votes in 21 counties and the people's ticket received in those same counties, 5,077 votes. Now, the people's party platform was more pronounced for free silver than the democratic platform, and instead of democrats remaining at home, or voting against Campbell on account of the free silver plank, they did vote, but cast their ballots for the party that was the more pronounced of the two. The silver plank did not defeat Mr. Campbell in the manner attributed by the hypercritics who are too fond of whacking Ohio democrats because they did not succeed in carrying a republican state.

Again, upon the tariff question the people's party holds the views which tariff reformers the country over wholly indorse. Their votes were public protestations against republican class rule and misrule. The democratic vote combined with the people's vote (silver and tariff votes), put McKinley's vote in the minority.

So much for the analysis of the Ohio vote of 1891. Defeated but not dismayed the democratic organization is intact and ready for the presidential campaign of 1892.

MAKING AND SAVING MONEY.

Henry Clews, the well-known banker, writes for an eastern periodical a paper on the making and saving of money. He says "it does not require genius; education, breeding, gentle manners or luck has nothing to do with it."

A sweeping assertion. There be professions where gentle manners and education certainly aid in business success, or, in Mr. Clews phraseology, in the accumulation of money. His first proposition is: "hard work," save something of what you earn, however little it may be; the child should be taught the value of money. "From the child's savings bank to the millionaire's bank account," he says, "is not a long step; it is a short and easy span."

Real estate is good investment; take good counsel before you buy stocks, bonds or railway shares; thrift, perseverance and industry with a share of common sense are the first essentials—these are the chief aphorisms culled from the paper of advice, which contains nothing new, only a repetition of what the majority of people already understand but do not choose to practice or have not the ability to do so, emphasized by the repetition, by a man who has practiced what he preaches, and with signal success. When he assumes to believe that every man may become a millionaire, he probably goes a little wild. But it is the observation of many that the employer of men often works harder, and more continuously, and spends less money for various indulgences and recreations than those who work for him, for week's wages.

Mr. Clews cites the names of Vanderbilt, Astor, Stewart, Belmont, Flood, Peter Cooper, George Peabody, John Mackay and others, as examples of men who have risen from poverty to affluence by their own unaided exertions. He doesn't particularize as to methods but illustrates by their careers what thrift, industry and perseverance can do. He says nothing of the cut-throat "refreshment" and gambling place where Flood and O'Brien coined money in the early days of the gold excitement in California, or of how the old, original Astor cheated the redskins out of their eye teeth, when he traded with them for their skunk and beaver skins. He insists upon integrity, however in his text of advice, and says "keep out of the way of speculators." Yet the men whom he quotes as worthy emulation have made millions by bold speculation, and Henry Clews himself is the agent of hundreds of speculators in New York.

Mr. Clews paper, while giving admonition worthy of heed as to "industry, perseverance and the saving of money," leaves the impression that the chiefest, worthiest aim and end in life is to "become a millionaire," and that it is laudable to bend every energy to the single purpose. It is the too prevalent American spirit, but its impression upon young men, who spend their earnings in frivolous pleasures with no thought of accumulation may be wholesome and good.

STATUS OF SENATOR-TRUSTEE SUTTON.

Hon. W. W. Sutton, a senator of the sixty-ninth general assembly, was appointed a trustee of the Toledo insane asylum by Gov. Campbell. The auditor of state declined to recognize him as a trustee until the question of resignation as senator was settled, the last legislature having enacted a law prohibiting the appointment of members of the general assembly to trusteeship of the state institutions. Senator Sutton assures the auditor that he has resigned as senator, still that state official refuses to recognize the trusteeship because Mr. Sutton's resignation as senator has not been accepted by the senate of which he is, or was, a member.

Auditor of State Poe displays undue officiousness, as well as gross ignorance of the law in this mater. The statute which he cites provides that—

"The resignation of a senator or representative which is tendered during any session of the general assembly, shall not take effect until the branch of which the person tendering it is a member has accepted the same by a vote of a majority of the members elected to such branch, exclusive of the person tendering the resignation."

There is no law to prevent Mr. Sutton resigning when the senate is not in session, as it is not now, has not been since last spring, and will never be again. Unless he resigns he will be a senator until his successor qualifies. He prefers to resign, and he has resigned, and every requirement of the law is fulfilled and satisfied. Auditor Poe has arrogated to himself the power which he does not possess of passing upon the legal status of Trustee Sutton of the Toledo asylum. Mr. Sutton is a trustee, and will be such officer under the appointment of Gov. Campbell, subject, of course, to the "advice and consent" of the senate which will meet in January. Mr. Poe is making a big bluster about a very small matter.

New York has just started another "subscription list." This time it is to buy a service of silver for the new war ship, named for the state. The list shows $102 subscribed and the newspapers have columns about it. For a city that aspires to be "the metropolis" of the country, New York is as picayunish as a country hamlet; still criticism is withheld, they may be able ultimately to buy a water urn and goblets.

New York city is the most sublime consumer of sour grapes in the United States of America. According to its newspapers, it returned thanks because it was not to be afflicted with either the world's fair or the national republican convention. Next we know it will be thankful it is no longer the metropolis of the sea-board.

Trouble in Dr. Talmage's church is brewing. Complaint is made that the Doctor is becoming quite too big for the Tabernacle. Too many congregations forget the worship of the creator in the fellowship and following of the creature, and then repent their folly when the overfed man asserts himself beyond the limit of endurance.

In answer to query: Nov. 25, 1783, was Evacuation Day. Paste it in your hat and hold a celebration next time. It got nicely mixed with Thanksgiving this year.

Samoa is reported to be on the eve of another political eruption. Mataafa wants to play at the king business again. It would be amusing if it were not so serious.

Western railroads are abolishing passes again. Somehow this work never stays done, but this time it is said to be perfomed in dead earnest.

Dr. Koch doesn't purpose giving up the struggle. He has issued a recent paper on "Tuberculine" which is receiving attention.

What a High Tariff Is Doing.

Within the past fortnight an ex-chairman of the republican national committee, B. F. Jones, has compelled his 1,500 workmen to take less wages and work longer hours. Niedringhaus, the tin plate ex-congressman, still refuses to accept the price-list of the Amalgamated union. The Oliver & Roberts Wire company, of Pittsburg, reduced wages 20 per cent. last week; and among the millionaire Pennsylvania iron-masters, including Mr. Andrew Carnegie himself, to whom Massachusetts pays large tribute, there is a general movement against union rates. Here in Massachusetts it is not so much a matter of reduction of wages as of stopping wages altogether.—Boston Post.

Tin, Tin, Now Makes No Din.

The extraordinary falling off in the establishment of tin-plate works since election is the most noticeable thing in the world. Before the ides of November set in it was a poor day that, by telegraph from some part of the union or another, the establishment of tin-plate factories was not heralded to the world. The election of Major McKinley seems to have paralyzed the business.—Newark Advocate.

Hard on Our Charley.

In one way Secretary Foster is really a phenomenal financier. There is hardly an exploded or indefensible theory connected with the currency that does not find in him a sincere believer, and even a zealous apostle. Like the Persian archer who was rewarded because he always missed the mark, Mr. Foster may have obtained his secretaryship because, while he was a congressman, he always went wrong on questions of finance.—Boston Herald.

With Jingoism.

Reciprocity has a wild suspicion that her turkey has been badly stuffed.—Philadelphia Record.

SHERMAN AND FORAKER.

Uncle Johnny Sherman believes in that good old scriptural declaration, "the first shall be last."—Columbus Post.

It is time for John Sherman to get even with Foraker for the latter's treachery at Chicago in 1888. And he may be trusted to do it.—St. Louis Republic.

The Foraker-Sherman fight isn't abating much. Benny is a lively fighting cock, but John puts in blows that count and will get there and Brice will stay there.—Ashland Press.

If Foraker is defeated for the senatorship, it would be a handsome courtesy on the part of Gov. McKinley to recommend him for the smoke inspectorship of Cincinnati.—Bellefontaine Examiner.

The economically inclined republicans who were so worried over what they considered the lavish expenditures of Payne and Brice in the past, would do well to keep an eye on Sherman's bank account during the next six weeks.—Madison County Democrat.

What a pity the present fight in the g. o. p. couldn't have been opened just prior to the late election. Ohio would have gone democratic by about 30,000, providing Foraker had announced his candidacy.—Mansfield Shield and Banner.

Ex-Gov. Foster says he is in favor of Sherman for senator. This utterance of his will probably settle the senatorial question as between Sherman and Foraker, for Foster's wishes have more weight with the republicans of Ohio than any other one man.—Celina Standard.

It is more than six weeks until the vote on senator is taken in the Ohio legislature. During this time both Foraker and Sherman may enjoy the happiness of assured success while the people will have to stand the thundering charge and countercharge of this second edition of the fall campaign.—Findlay Republican.

It seems indisputable that the Commercial Gazette's slanderous war upon Senator Sherman lost that city the national convention. The rivals at Washington contended with great force and effect, that with such a party controversy in Ohio, it would be injudicious to carry the convention to Cincinnati.—Dayton Journal.

The friends of Senator Sherman are so confident of his re-election by the Ohio legislature that he has gone to Washington and will not bother himself about the subject any longer. Foraker has a small minority of the republican members, but he made noise enough to justify the fear that there really was some danger of his election. If he be defeated this time it will probably be the end of him in politics.—Kansas City Star.

GRIFFIN'S CHOICE.

With Apologies to Tom Moore.

Sherman's weak and Joseph too,
No one e'er the fact denied,
Which is weaker of the two
Griffin can alone decide.
Choose between them, Griffin, pray;
Which is weaker, Griffin, say.

Each a different mode pursues,
Each the same conclusion reaches.
Sherman's wild in banking views,
Joseph foolish in his speeches.
Choose between them, Griffin, pray;
Which is weaker, Griffin, say.

Joseph, given much to roam,
Plays with truth a traveler's pranks,
Sherman, though he stays at home,
Plays a lone hand with the banks.
Choose between them, Griffin, pray;
Which is weaker, Griffin, say.

Once we know a horse's neigh
Fixed the election to a throne,
So whichever first shall bray
Choose him, Griffin, for thine own.
Choose him; choose him; by his bray,
Thus elect him, Griffin, pray.

Sherman's brays, but not as loud—
Not as loud as Joseph, no—
Joseph's yell has caught the crowd,
Griffin's vote is pledged to Joe.
Thus does Griffin choose, oh, say,
Is not this the better way?

WORDS OF CHEER

From a West Virginian Who is Interested in Ohio Politics.

I would like to say a word of encouragement to the defeated democrats of the old Buckeye state. We, the democratic party of your young sister state, West Virginia, have watched every movement of your campaign with great interest and with great hope that you would come off successful. But you have only been defeated once more. While we feel your defeat as sorely as you, we would encourage you to press onward and never despair, for victory is just ahead. Only one short year until we will rejoice with you over a greater victory than your brother republicans have now won.

I heard a brother democrat say that though he was a poor man, he would rather have lost a $5 bill than to have heard of Mr. Campbell's defeat over in Ohio. That is the way we feel about it here in West Virginia. It is not only one or two men that talk this way, but it is the general cry all over our state. If Gov. Campbell had been running in our state he would have now been our governor. We would be pleased to see him second on our national ticket in '92, and Grover Cleveland first. With a ticket of this kind we could give those republicans of the old Buckeye state a little lesson they would not soon forget. Yes, I said Cleveland and Campbell, a good ticket, one that we all could heartily support without any fear of defeat, and moreover men whom we would not fear to trust at the head of our great nation. West Virginia democrats feel very much assured that we will gain a great victory in '92.

The democratic party all over the United States should be well organized to go into our next campaign like a solid army. One more word to the Ohio democrats: stick close to the line; you are gaining year by year and the day is close at hand when you will step over on the side of the line that holds the power by the majority that you may go into any contest without fear and come out conquerer. Yours,

W. E. Bell.

Henrietta, W. Va., Nov. 19, '91.

JAMES IS NON-COMMITTAL.

Wood County's Representative Is Mum on the Senatorial Question.

Representative James, of Wood county, was at the Hamilton last evening en route to Freeport, where he acts as counsel in an important liquor case.

Speaking with a Bee last evening, he absolutely refused to say a word on the senatorial question.

"You must not ask me for my preferences," said he. "I will try and represent my constituents honestly and faithfully on this as on all other questions."

It is an open secret, however, that Mr. James is for Foraker first and last.

"Who is your choice for speaker?" the Bee queried.

"Oh, Griffin most assuredly. He is a Toledo man and Toledo is my town. I am for her against any other city in the state. Of course I don't know what his chances are, but I presume he will make the fight and win."

Mr. James is a graduate of Yale and an attorney of much ability. He will be heard from in the house.

Another Object Lesson.

The largest rolling mill in Massachusetts, the Gilmore-Eustis works at Cambridgeport, has been compelled to shut down, on account, Mr. Eustis says, "of the fearfully high taxes levied by the republican party on raw materials." This is another object lesson. Will New England heed it? Down with the taxes on raw materials.—New Haven Register.

Nobody Ever Did.

Mrs. Emma Ewing has come to the front again with an elaborate essay on "A Thanksgiving Dinner That Children Can Eat." Now, by the proud comb of the turkey, did anybody ever see a Thanksgiving dinner that the children cannot eat?—Kansas City Star.

It Is Very Likely.

A suspicion is current that since the meeting of the republican national committee President Harrison has even less to be thankful for than he had when he penned his Thanksgiving proclamation.—Chicago Times.

Left to Its Awful Fate.

The Christian Reformer is to be removed from Philadelphia to Pittsburg. This looks as if Philadelphia was to be abandoned to its awful fate.—Washington Post.

Of Prehistoric Family.

A prehistoric person with copper mouldings on his jaws has been dug up in the Ohio valley. There were Forakers in Ohio even in the earliest days.—New York Sun.

TO TEST REED'S QUORUM.

Washington, Nov. 28.—A brief has been filed for the government in the supreme court of the United States by Solicitor General Taft in the case of the United States, appellant, v Ballin, Joseph & Co., known as the quorum case, brought to test the legality of Speaker Reed's methods in counting a quorum. The case comes to the supreme court on an appeal from the United States circuit court, for the southern district of New York.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

The Washington cyclone was not sent by Providence to give the republicans a foretaste of the weather they may encounter at Minneapolis.—Commercial Advertiser.

Having beheld St. Paul advocating the claims of Minneapolis for the republican convention, we are now prepared to see Chicago electioneering to get the democratic gathering for St. Louis.—Indianapolis News.

Chicago did not get the republican convention, but she chuckles over the thought that the boys will be good and dry about the time they strike Chicago on their way home.—Columbus Post.

Chicago should enter the contest for the democratic convention in earnest. In permitting Minneapolis to entertain the republican president-makers this city has paid whatever debt it owed the far northwest for support in the world's fair contest. No more self-abnegation can be asked fairly. Chicago now may rightfully demand that the democratic convention be held here.—Chicago Times.

St. Paul, the other twin of the Siamese cities on the Mississippi river, is after the democratic national convention. They are a thrifty set of twins, these two cities of the frosty northwest. They have their family jars at times, and their fraternal spats; but, like Harrison and Blaine, they "pull together" when there is business in sight—for, practically, they are so close together that their interests are mutual.—Philadelphia Record.

It was an error to suppose that St. Paul would sit down in jealous tears because Minneapolis had secured a national convention. Any one who did suppose so did not know St. Paul, and furthermore overlooked the fact that there are to be two national conventions next year. The second of these two conventions St. Paul has marked for her own, and will copper Minneapolis' promise to deliver the state for the republican party by an equally binding agreement to hand it over to the democrats. After this display of unconquerable spirit it is only decent to wish that St. Paul may get it.—Philadelphia Times.

That Sam Tanner has thus far failed to hand in that resignation so much desired by Clerk Fogarty. It is another well-developed case of "the letter that was looked for never came."

That the "friendly contest" now going on in the republican ranks over the senatorial question will have a tendency to sow seeds of desintegration so thickly that recovery will not be possible.

That it would not be a bad idea for the Lucas County Democratic club to start a movement for the celebration of Jackson Day, January 8. What say you, President Ritchie, to the proposition?

That local republicans are not so much opposed to so-called ripper legislation as they have been for the past two years. Indeed, it is possible a little of it may be visited on Toledo the coming winter.

That there would be considerable rejoicing among citizens if the vacant property in the center of the city was utilized for some respectable buildings—after the new Walbridge structure, for instance.

That the past year has witnessed the placing of the Smead ventilating and heating apparatus in most of the prominent school buildings of the country, and Toledo's trade-mark appears on every one of them.

That there is considerable disagreement among the republican local leaders as to what counties should compose the new congressional district. The fact is the candidates are too numerous to permit of an agreement.

IN THE NORTHWEST.

Experiences of a Toledoan Told for the Benefit of Bee Readers.

To the Editor: Several weeks have passed since I said good-bye to Toledo friends and turned my face westward; reaching Chicago in due time, transferred to the Northwestern railroad and from there to the B., C., R. & N., and was very soon rolling over the prairie as fast as steam would carry me, reaching the Minnesota border as the sun tipped the zenith.

And about that time of year, it was the sportsman's idyl here—as well as in and around Toledo, for the drowsy dream of the hunter's life, with its mildew, mold and mellow, fell 'round us in this country grand, and caught us, every fellow—for here, around these lovely waters, bordered on either bank with high wild grasses you find the choicest game that never fails to please the dainty taste of the epicure.

Here could be found the duck in all his beautiful colors—and the mallard with his shining emerald head and far-sounding quack; also the quail and prairie chicken in the grain fields flying up before us at every step, and who can say such game was not halcyon days for the gunner, or that I was not improving them.

Our party concluded to have one rare day of sport, so we started early, long before the east was brightened with her gleams of topaz, accompanied by queen (who knows her business well) and soon we entered the domain of sport. The jay bird scolded us from his hiding-place in the cotton wood, and the wild goose whanged high. By noon we had been well paid as our bags were full of game, so we dragged our tired selves to the wagon and started for our hotel some twelve miles away, and after a hearty dinner a "trip" or two or three and a cigar or two I found myself wondering how the Seventh and Eighth ward sporting clubs were making it at home, but as the Eighth ward club is composed strictly of "prohibitionists" of course it could not be "in it" out here. I know its motto is to be free from all vices and to carry on their banner—"Veracity" from the bright lights enrolled on their membership. However, ere you hear from me again it will be Thanksgiving day. I will not be with you, dear friends, but I will not forget the club, for—

"This night I hold an old accustomed feast
Whereto I have invited many a guest,
Such as I love."

And when we meet again, I will have more to tell you of the great northwest.

COAL FAMINE THREATENED.

The Price Jumps 40 Per Cent—Demand For Toledo Coal.

Coal famines are threatened in Milwaukee and Chicago, and Toledo shippers are receiving more orders than they can attend to. Yesterday Mr. G. G. Hadley, president of the Phenix Coal company, received a dispatch from Milwaukee asking for a cargo of coal at any price.

"Soft coal advanced in price from $1 to $1.20 at the mines," said Mr. Hadley to a Bee, "and the chances are there will be another advance of 20 cents before Dec. 1. There is a great scarcity of soft coal at Chicago and Milwaukee."

"What seems to be the cause?"

"Well, the miners in Indiana are on strike and those of Illinois threaten to go out. This, I think, is the cause for the scarcity."

Mr. S. C. Schenck states that there has been no advance in the price of hard coal, nor likely to be.

GETTING BACK ON OUR POET.

These two rythmic screeds came via Uncle Sam's mail this morning:

A TALE OF WOE.

Written and Inscribed to the Poet Laureate of the Bee.

A wise reporter in a city grew,
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.
He rhymed until the air was blue,
And after all said nothing new;
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.

He piped his line in the Busy Bee,
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.
I'll put them all in my line "said he,
Each and every gas trustee."
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.

With all this waste of gas last night,
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.
The gas trustees were out of sight
By city gas fires glowing bright,
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.

But the poet scribe of the Busy Bee,
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.
Where in the bitter cold was he
Wasting gas on the gas trustee?
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.

Can we find a crown for the poet's head
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.
For what he has already said,
Which we in the Bee have sadly read?
Listen to a tale of woe,
Oh, Ho.

E. P. D.

Inscribed to the Bee Poet Reporter.

No more a reporter can be a poet
Than a sheep can be a goat;
No more a scribe can write a ditty
Than a tom-cat can be a kitty;
No more a reporter can write a rhyme,
They're blasted failures half the time;
Then, mister poet of the Bee,
Don't waste your wit on the gas trustee.

Machinists' Open Meeting—Blacksmiths to Give a Dance.

Last evening the Wood Working Machine Hands' union held an open meeting at Carpenter's hall. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. Booth, Voit, Fellows and others. Owing to the inclemency of the weather the meeting was not as largely attended as anticipated. The union is in good shape financially and numerically.

The Blacksmith's union No. 5526, at its regular meeting last evening decided to give a ball at Druid hall Wednesday evening, December 2. The following committees were appointed:

Floor—Paul Greslein, Theo. Keck, Fred Drauss, James Bolton, William Harris.

Reception—James Collery, Chas. Reagle, John Wineszaoski.

The Blacksmith's Helpers will organize next Thursday evening at Walbridge hall.

ROCA AND MITRE.

One May Cause the Other Considerable Trouble Before Spring.

Buenos Ayres, Nov. 28.—The supporters of Generals Roca and Mitre for the presidency held a meeting Thursday with the object of coming to an amicable understanding. Nothing came of the conference and it closed leaving matters in the same unsettled state.

The officials throughout the republic are said to be heartily in sympathy with Gen. Mitre and his candidacy, and he will probably be chosen to succeed President Pelligrini. If such turns out to be the case the adherents of Gen. Roca will in all probability start a revolution.

In Scott's Emulsion the cod-liver oil and hypophosphites are so combined as to get the full advantage of both.

Sarah J. Gain, London, O., says: "Hemorrhage of the Lungs and Consumption have afflicted me for years. This winter my health was in a more precarious condition than ever before, and my family and friends thought my days on earth were few. In this emergency, I sent for Dr. S——, who prescribed it almost immediately relieved me, and has since greatly benefitted me. I cannot but think it is the greatest medicine in the world for Lung and Throat diseases."

Dr. S——, referred to in the foregoing, also writes us as follows:

"I prescribed your Emulsion for Mrs. Gain. After taking it a while, her cough became less distressing, expectoration less, and her nervousness ceased almost entirely. Her cough and expectoration finally ceased entirely, and to-day she is enjoying a comfortable degree of health."

A WOMAN'S DREAM.

Happier Days—They Can Return.

How many women have thus dreamed about their lost health and strength! They suffer greatly from weakness and debility, become nervous, fretful, pass sleepless nights, wake tired, without appetite, strength or ambition.

Tired and miserable all the time expresses their feelings, and they often have palpitation, indigestion, gas, bloating, malaria, liver trouble and constipation. If a woman thus troubled is wise she will procure immediately that great nerve cure and restorer of strength, DR. GREENE'S NERVURA. Health of body and strength of nerve will return, and she will again know her old-time strength, power and vigor to enjoy every moment of life. DR. GREENE'S NERVURA is purely vegetable and harmless. Druggists sell it, $1.00.

"I deem it my duty to say that I think DR. GREENE'S NERVURA the best medicine in the world. My kidneys were in a terrible state. I had awful pains in the back and side, and could not sleep at night. My headache was a source of great annoyance and I suffered much at certain periods. I cannot speak too highly of DR. GREENE'S NERVURA, for it cured me of my terrible complaints. Why, I felt so miserable that I often thought that I would take my own life. I thank God for directing me to DR. GREENE'S NERVURA.

MRS. LILA C. ROOT,

TAKE THE SUNNY SIDE.

Let's oftener talk of noble deeds,
And rarer of the bad ones,
And sing about our happy days,
And not about the sad ones.
We are not made to fret and sigh,
And when grief sleeps, to wake it,
Bright happiness is standing by,
This life is what we make it.

Let's find the sunny side of men
Or be believers in it;
A light there is in every soul
That takes the pains to win it.
Oh, there is slumbering good in all,
And we, perchance, may wake it;
Our hands contain the magic wand;
This life is what we make it.

Then here's to those whose loving hearts
Shed light and joy about them!
Thanks be to them for countless gems
We ne'er had known without them.
Oh! this should be a happy world
To all who may partake it;
The fault's our own if it is not—
This life is what we make it.

To the long list of food fishes caught in Oregon waters is to be added the mackerel. One of the fishes will be sent to the Smithsonian institution, to decide upon its classification.

About 10,000 corn cob pipes are daily manufactured in this country, all being made in three factories at St. Louis, Greenwood, Neb., and and in Kansas. The cobs are all procured in Missouri, and are all supplied by the Collier variety of corn, on which they grow usually heavy, woody and hard.

Chrysanthemums 18 inches in circumference are not uncommon in Australia, and many varieties grown there surpass in size and equal in color the finest exhibited at flower shows. When the atmosphere contains 85 per cent. of moisture it is saturated; the amount of humidity is calculated on the 85 per cent. scale, so that when we are told there is 75 per cent. of humidity it does not mean that the atmosphere is only 10 points away from saturated, but that it contains 75 per cent. of the 85 per cent. of humidity necessary to saturate it.

An extraordinary result has been obtained by some experiments made in England in signaling with electric lights turned vertically to the sky. The light of the Eddystone lighthouse can be seen only 17 1-2 miles, and then on a clear night; but a vertical beam of light of far less power is visible just twice as far, with a strong chance of its surmounting an ordinary fog.

London claims to be the center of civilization and also the geographical center of the earth. The city of London is put down by geographers as the center of the landed hemisphere. In other words, a radius of about 6,000 miles on the curved surface of the earth, with London as the center, would describe a circumference enclosing more land than any 6,000 mile circle that could be drawn from any other city in the world.

Near Horn Head, county Donegal, Ireland, there is a hole in the rocks called McSwiney's gun. It is on the seacoast and is said to have connection with a cavern. When the north wind blows, and the sea is at half flood the wind and the waves enter the cavern and send up jets of water from the "gun" to a height of more than 100 feet. The jets of water are accompanied by explosions which may be heard for miles.

While a large fire-log was being cut up at the West-Shore mills, Astoria, Wash., the other day, a large toad poked his head out of a hole that was exposed in the trunk by the saw. The log was the third from the butt of the tree, so that the creature must have been fully sixty feet up in the trunk, and the growth of the wood showed it had been confined there several hundred years. The toad hopped off and made its escape before the astonished workmen could secure it.

A huge toadstool has appeared every fall for the last ten years on a low branch of an elm tree near Waldock park, Berlin. It stands about 25 inches high and has a cap almost two feet in diameter. Two years ago a policeman picked, cooked, and ate it, and suffered no bad results from the meal. Sept. 3 the big toadstool sprouted for the eleventh time.

ANOTHER STORM IS DUE

To Pass This Section During Next Week.

Verified Predictions Made by Prof. Foster.

Much That He Foretold a Year Ago Has Come to Pass—Drouths in Store for the People Next Year.

Copyrighted, 1891, by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 28.—In my last letter I mentioned a serious drouth to occur next year along and south of the 40th degree of north latitude in the United States. I have not yet fully determined the effects of the drouth in detail, only its scope in a general way. It will principally affect the Mississippi valley, where the elevation is not more than 1,500 feet and the low lands along the Atlantic coast. In mountainous regions, especially the Rocky mountains, more than the average amount of rain will fall.

In this general letter I cannot give a detailed forecast that will fit every locality, and those who desire further information may address me by letter. Many limited localities within the great drouth district will have sufficient rain to make fair crops, but where these localities may be situated depends largely on the topography of the country surrounding them.

Every farmer or feeder should keep enough grain and hay to carry stock through the winters of 1892-3. There can be no loss in this, even to those who may be in the favored localities and raise a good crop in 1892, for it is not probable that prices will be lower next year than they now are. If the planters could do so it would pay them to keep their cotton till next year's crop is made.

A portion of the fall wheat belt will have favorable weather for a good crop, but spring wheat will be the principal crop next year. I am now carefully calculating the details of next year's serious drouth and hope to have it completed by January.

The storm wave due to cross the continent from the 22d to 26th was dealt with in my last letter, and the next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about the 27th, cross the Rocky mountains about the 28th, the great central valleys from the 29th to Dec. 1, and reach the Atlantic coast about Dec. 2.

This storm will be most severe on the Pacific coast about the 27th, and a severe cold wave will reach the Dakotas about the 30th, affecting the Mississippi valley and the eastern states during the first days of December. The snows and rains of this disturbance will affect most of the United States.

The cold wave that crossed the continent from the 13th to 19th of November and the extensive snow storms that accompanied it have settled all doubts as to the nature of the incoming winter. That storm with the extremely low temperature of its cold wave convinced millions of people that the winter will be as predicted, and will go far toward confirming the reliability of my forecasts. I have made a few mistakes, but the cold spring and cold June and July, warm August and September, the general good crops of 1891 and the early winter weather, all predicted by me a year in advance, will largely increase the interest in the electrical system of meteorology.

While I have thus demonstarted, at my own expense, the utility of this system, our government continues to pay out annually $800,000 in support of the national weather bureau, which is conducted now on exactly the same theory and by the same men that it was twenty years ago. If the system I use was supported by two per cent. of the money paid to the national weather bureau, it could soon be so perfected as to be of great value to agriculture, whereas the system used by the national weather bureau is of very little if any benefit to agriculture.

When the weather bureau was transferred to the agricultural department it was hoped that a new departure would be made in the interest of the tillers of the soil, but it is now quite apparent that the defunct heat theory of weather changes has a perpetual lease on the Washington weather bureau so long as congress is willing to appropriate nearly a million dollars for its support.

One year ago I predicted greater storms from May 1891 to the first of July 1892 than had occurred for sixty years past. The greatest of these storms will occur in 1892. The storms that have occurred all around the earth within three months past, especially in the West Indies, on our own Atlantic coast, in Australia, eastern Asia, South America and western Europe, are the greatest on record. The storms to come will be most severe where those of the past three months have been least.

TERRIBLE ITCHING

Used Everything Five Months—In Three Weeks not a Scar of Pimple—Cured by Cuticura.

When my baby was three months old his cheeks and forehead began to break out with white pimples on red surface. In a few days itching commenced, which was terrible. After he would rub it, matter would ooze from the points. In a short time it spread over the top of his head, then scabs soon formed on head and face. We used everything we could hear of for nearly five months. It grew worse all the time. I saw your advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES in the "Chicago Weekly." We purchased CUTICURA REMEDIES and commenced their use. In three weeks' time there was not a sore or pimple, not even a scar, on head or face. He is nineteen months old now, and has no signs of the disease. His scalp is healthy and he has a beautiful head of hair. (See portrait herewith.)

TOLEDO SPORTSMEN.

Get Into a Bad Box at Samaria, Mich.

A number of Toledo sportsmen had rather an experience at Samaria, Mich., 15 miles north of this city on the Toledo & Ann Arbor, one day this week. The country in the vicinity of Samaria is just alive with partridge and quail, and our local nimrods, hearing of he fact, set out in quest of some.

The farmers up there object to people pulling down fences, and signs are posted all over that trespassers will be prosecuted. The Toledo people, however, paid no attention to the notices, but went on bagging game all day long. The farmers in the meantime were not idle. The Toledoans, just as it began to grow dark, started for home, but were intercepted by an assemblage of indignant farmers who not only took from the festive Ohioans three dozen partridge and several dozen brace of quail, but the guns. The guns were finally returned, and the sportsmen returned to Toledo sadder but wiser.

A SLANDERER IN JAIL.

Villianous Action by a Napoleon Citizen.

Frank Hall Was Playing in Great Luck When He Ran Up Against a Mild-Mannered Man.

Napoleon, Nov. 28.—(Special)—For some time Frank Hall has been circulating stories to the effect that his relations with Mrs. Jas. Shay had been of the most intimate,—in fact he made so bold as to tell the husband himself and tauntingly asked him "what he was going to do about it?"

Mrs. Shay yesterday decided to establish her innocence in a tribunal of justice. Hall was arrested and brought before Squire Tucker.

Being unable to substantiate his brutal assertions he was bound over to common pleas court. His bond was fixed at $500 which could not be given, hence he lies in jail.

Mr. Shay and family are respectable people, while Hall has long been known as a notorious character.

JOURNALISTIC ENTERPRISE.

FARMER—That was a stavin' paper you got out last week.

COUNTRY EDITOR—I'm glad to hear that you were pleased with it.

FARMER—Them stories you had in about them fellers bein' cured of long-standin' diseases were the entertaininist bit of news I've read for a long time.—Puck.

You'd believe in patent medicines if they didn't profess to cure everything.

And, you can't always tell the prescription that cures by what you read in the papers. So, perhaps, there's no better way to sell a remedy, than to tell the truth about it, and take the risk of its doing just what it professes to do.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a "cure-all," but is only adapted to those diseases peculiar to women. It fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a perfect specific in all chronic weaknesses, functional and painful disorders peculiar to the sex.

It's a powerful, invigorating tonic, and a soothing and strengthening nervine—purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. For ulcerations, displacements, bearing-down sensations, unnatural discharges—everything that's known as a "female complaint"—it's a positive remedy.

A Terrible Sufferer.

Petersburg, Ind., July 11, 1890.

Dr. J. W. Bergen, City:

Dear Sir—It is with no small degree of pleasure that we testify to the wonderful curative merits of Dr. Bergen's Asthma Cure.

My wife had been a terrible sufferer with asthma for nineteen years, and with six bottles of your medicine she was entirely cured, and two souls made happy.

Sincerely,
WM. G. BEMENT.

PLEASANT DAYS

In the Councils of the Household--The Freedom of It, the Charm.

The Pilgrim Mothers—Pretty Caps for Grandma—Thanks Gracefully Spoken—"Teacups."

"FEMININE VANITY."

"Feminine vanity?" O ye gods, hear to this man!
As if silk and satin, and feathers and fur,
And jewels and gold had been all for her
Since the world began.

Where is his memory? Let him survey
The masculine half of our glorious race,
From the first he savage that painted his face
To the dude of to-day.

"Vanity?" Oh, are the twists and curls,
The intricate patterns in red, black and blue,
The wearisome torture of rich tattoo,
Just made for girls?

Is it only the squaw who files the teeth,
And dangles the lips, and bores the ear,
And wears bracelet, and necklet, and anklet as queer
As the bones beneath?

Look at the soldiers, the nobles, the kings,
Egypt, or Greece, or Rome discloses—
The purples, and perfumes, and gems, and roses
On masculine things!

Look at the men of the long dark ages—
Heroes too in their cloth of gold,
With jewels as thick as the cloth could hold
On the knights and pages.

"French heels?" "Sharp toes?" "Our feet defaced?"
But there was a time when the warrior free
Tied the toe of his shoe to his manly knee—
Yes, and even his waist!

"We wear false hair?" Our man looks big;
But it's not so long, let me venture to state,
Since every gentleman shaved his pate
And wore a wig!

"We pad and stuff?" Our man looks bolder.
Don't speak of the time when a bran-filled bunch
Made an English gentleman look like Punch;
But—feel of his shoulder!

"Feminine vanity?" O ye gods, hear to these men!
Vanity's wide as the world is wide;
Look at the peacock in his pride—
Is it a hen?

—Charlotte P. Stetson in Kate Field's Washington.

ALONE.

Alone we tread life's devious pathways, sent
We know not whence, across our toilsome way,
Folded around in mists, uncertain, gray,
Shadows of hope and fear together blent.
Anon, the dull thick clouds apart are rent,
Love wakens, and makes glad the passing hours;
The way leads onward o'er upspringing flowers,
And past brooks murm'ring of a sweet content.
Yet, as we clasp and think this joy our own,
It fades—again in solitude we stand,
Watching the light wane o'er a darkening land;
The winds sob round us with a wailing moan;
When, all unlooked for, with a grim, firm hand,
Death ope's the gate, and we pass out—alone.

—Mary Nell in Chambers' Journal.

Inanimate Intelligence.

Gail Hamilton wrote of "the total depravity of inanimate things." That might be amended to read "the manifest intelligence of material things." Did you never become conscious of this when you "moved" into a new house or rooms? How shall the furniture be placed? Somehow it seems to enter into the spirit of the inquiry. If you get the pieces wrongly put, how they rebel and thrust out their sharp corners to remind you that they are not "settled." You may elect to have your commode and dresser on "this side" of your boudoir; they will not move themselves into better positions but somehow they will silently torment you into making a change. Once it is done how serene the atmosphere becomes and it is like a revelation to you, why didn't you see it before? that place was made for the "bureau" and that corner for the "what-not;" and dear me, why couldn't you sense in the beginning, that your easy rocker should have the book table for close neighbor? and that easel with portrait precisely its own light? Then how a jargon of colors shrieks out at you! You cannot get away from it, you must rearrange or obliterate entirely. The moment you are in harmony with your surroundings, what a peaceful, rested feeling steals over you. Some persons call this "getting domesticated."

Supposably the living, breathing body is the greater part of the combination, because what is harmony for one is quite the reverse for another, but you mustn't say, it is all "fudge" for it is not, there is proof positive. For instance, a woman was rolling a couch around here and there to cosy it in, just where seemed best, when it took to its castors and went, not where she had planned at all (but where it belonged) in spite of her. She sat down and looked at the comfortable little chenille-covered affair with actual admiration and gratitude. It has occupied its chosen corner ever since.

And because there is a degree of intelligence in "things" is a reason why furniture which has associations, and wrinkles of thought, that is, scars of bangs and buffetings, gives character to a room that no parlor, fresh from the furniture shop can possibly assume. Perhaps the "q. e. d." to this is: place your house furnishings in harmony and then make friends with them, so shall your nerves be quiet and your days peaceful.

The Neglected Mothers.

What ruts we get into and how we jog along, forgetting there is any way out, and how vexed we sometimes are with anybody that halloes to us to that effect. Years ago somebody said let's have some "father songs," the air is full of hymns about "mothers," give the old man a chance." While ago it was made note of that the "pilgrim fathers" were getting all the glory and something might be said about the pilgrim mothers who shared equally the labor and the hardships, and whose endurance and courage helped to subdue the wilderness and make the home a cheerful spot in the stumpy clearing. So, now, some thoughtful writers and orators remember to say "Our pilgrim fathers and mothers."

In all American celebrations women may well claim part. Queen Isabella pledged her jewels to make the discovery of the country possible, yet it is asserted that the only monument to the noble queen is a back alley in Boston, named for her, "Isabella alley." The feeble colony at Jamestown was delivered by Pocahontas. It was a woman who first set foot on Plymouth Rock (it is always a woman who gets over the gang plank of a steamer first—and last—for that matter).

Miss Phebe Couzins made some good points in a recent lecture in her own city on this subject. She said:

"The Pilgrim Mothers had been neglected and disregarded by all the earlier historians except Eliot. The Pilgrim Father had filled the eye of all historians, and his deeds had been spread over the page of history. Only a few names of New England women were mentioned, although thousands had left a home in England for the sake of principle. Yet in the annual meetings of the New England society nothing was heard of the Pilgrim Mothers."

She bade them remember that it was the wife of Silas Hemmingway who advanced $100,000 to save the old South church of Boston from desecration. And this sum was augmented by "mites" from church socials and various entertainments, "the only way women have of raising money." Then Edward Everett Hale walked in and claimed the credit in the usual "Betsy-and-I-killed-the-bear" fashion.

Then there were the revolutionary mothers like Bessie Langston, who was so emphatic a "rebel" the British officers dubbed her house the "Wasps' Nest," and Mary Slocum, of South Carolina, whose home was known as the "Hornets' Nest," and Tabitha Adams, wife of John Adams, who would not give over urging her husband to boldly declare the colonies free and independent.

Betsey Ross designed the American flag, and Lydia Darrah led the train which bore relief to the suffering soldiers at Valley Forge, driving the ox-team herself. And the other ox-carts, ten in number, were "manned" by women. Women did their share in the anti-slavery struggle, yet there are no monuments to Harriet Beecher Stowe, Lydia Maria Child, or Lucretia Mott. No women's names are carven on marble to commemorate their services in the sanitary work during the late rebellion.

These are a few of the instances of injustice made note of by Miss Couzins. But a change in this spirit is imminent; the building of the Women's temple in Chicago, and the impetus given to memorial associations by woman's interest in the approaching world's fair will be great. Names worthy of remembrance will yet be snatched from oblivion by new historians. Hopefully these monuments of the future will take the form of schools, hospitals, lyceums, libraries, memorial homes and like institutions rather than cold blocks of marble, nine out of ten of which are anything but satisfactory even in an artistic sense.

Grandma's Caps.

Sisters of the Household, have you a "grandma" to take care of, and is she a real old-fashioned one? Yes? Well, then, she wears caps, and more, she wears the kind that tie under the chin and cover her ears, and she likes them to be neat and pretty, and you do, too. You ought to be ashamed of yourself if you do not.

Now our grandma's years are nearly four score, but she likes her pretty caps, and is always pleased to have anyone say that they are handsome.

We have long ago grown tired of the linen cap, with stiff linen ruffles that were so difficult to flute, and so tedious to iron, and so often unsatisfactory when done. Now we make them this way: We use any sheer white material, such as India linen, mull or lawn, for the foundation. Before sewing crown and front piece together we cover the front piece entirely with a bit of oriental lace, if it is too wide we cut it off at the back, leaving as much as is necessary of the rich edge to form the whole front of the cap. Then after having sewn the two parts of the cap together, we baste a strip of any kind of neat ruching in for a border. For every-day caps we use the "Tourist ruffling," for which we pay 25 cents per box, and one box lasts about a year. These caps cost almost nothing. One can be made in one-half hour, washed and ironed in a few minutes. Beware and beware of using too much starch when you do them up. They stay clean so long, and somehow grandma seems nicer in them than in the old awe-inspiring linen affairs.

The Christmas cap is going to be made on the same soft plan, but it shall be made finer. It will be of China silk and the lace will be a silk lace, not necessarily expensive, and the ruching shall be crepe lisse, and the ties of pretty ribbon; and grandma's eyes will brighten when she sees it, and long after the children have grown weary of the tops that made them so boisterously gleeful for a few days, grandma—our oldest child—will look at the Christmas cap and say, "Well, every time I get a new cap I think it the prettiest that can be made, but this beats them all. How kind they are to me. God bless them."

Sandusky, O.

Thankful for the Household.

Bee Council: This council like the features of an individual or the leaves and petals of vigorous plants, reveal in the stroke of each pen some characteristic peculiar to the person—although all are similar and each reminds us of another, yet I have heard a critic and proof reader say he could easily detect an author if any work of theirs had previously passed through his hands.

It has been the independence and variety of topices, suited to all people, which has secured its popularity. Therefore on this Thanksgiving I am thankful for this corner that each reader can find something to enjoy, with the hope that more workers may be added to the hive, joining hands to promote greater usefulness to the circle and to the world. If you have but "one talent" don't "hide it in a napkin" and say when the Judge comes, "Take that is thine." But study and cultivate the talent. You sow the seed—mayhap another may reap, but you must use what you have. I have experienced in life the truth of the old fable, the long leaps of the hare are futile beside the perseverance of the plodding tortoise. I'm thankful to gain a little each year.

OVER OUR TEACUPS.

Afternoon teas are delightful places for informal meetings, brief chats and interchange of those little courtesies which smooth the sometimes rough passages in the lives of the most fortunate of us. Making tea for her guests is the very prettiest attitude for a hostess, we sometimes think. The dainty adjuncts of the tea-making, set out in back parlor or drawing-room, the table napery, the cut glass, silver and china, the flowers, which should never be lacking, make such a pretty picture. Even the tea-kettle, with its spirit lamp under it, has come to be a thing of beauty.

Of course the tea should be good, never strong, but with a delicate and unmistakable flavor. "Russian tea or plain tea?" is the customary question. The Russian tea is served with no trimmings but a slice of lemon floating on the top of the tea. Many ladies prefer Russian tea, as the slightly acid taste, from the lemon, offsets the cloying sweetness of cake and almonds, both of which are favorite servings with givers of afternoon teas.

Here is a famous Englishman and physician's recipe for making good tea: "Use black China tea, putting in the old-fashioned teaspoonful for each person and one for the blessed pot. Then pour on briskly boiling water and within five minutes pour it off again, or the tea will be wicked instead of good."

An exchange says: The art of making good tea is not difficult. Having a little sense and good material the beverage may easily be made of excellent quality. The czar of Russia has the credit of making fine tea. He spent a short season in his villa in Fredensborg, Denmark, recently, and suited to a tea several small parties that he entertained there, making and pouring the cheering cup with his his own hands.

Think of the czar of all the Russias making and serving tea. To be sure, he might be in worse business, and very often is, but fancy an American "head of the house," to say nothing of the head of the nation, so engaged! However, women are more generous than men as to their mutual prerogatives, and presumably every tea-maker in ordinary will think the czar was rather nice than otherwise in thus entertaining his guests, and no woman of them all who go about moaning and lamenting that he has "unsexed" himself.

Shopping has risen from a pastime to a profession. It is said there are several thousand women in New York city who live on the per centage allowed them by the big shops in which they spend other people's money. In the rushing season—about holiday time and just before the summer season begins—some of them make as high as $200 a week. These lucky ones, though, usually have money of their own. They watch bargain sales carefully and manage generally to secure the cream of them. Then when an order comes they are often able to fill it from their private stock—and pocket the comfortable difference between the regular and bargain price.

It is said that when a tiger is hit by a bullet he generally roars, but a tigress will receive a wound without making a sound. In like manner a man will roar when he mashes his toe or pounds his finger, while a woman will only make a face.

One of the best mining experts of Arizona is Nellie Cashman, a tall, dark-eyed young woman less than 30. She is known all over the state as a most reliable worker.

We have all been so much interested in the visit of Lady Somerset to this country that the following brief sketch may be enjoyed:

Isabella, Lady Somerset, was born forty years ago in Eastnor Castle, Ledbury, Herefordshire, the first daughter of Earl and Countess Somers, and on her father's death she inherited his vast estates, lying not only in five English counties, but also in the very heart of London. She became a shining society favorite, the delight of the aristocratic drawing-rooms of the West End. But one day, in the midst of all the gayety and frivolity of a particularly bright season, she became suddenly the victim of an inexpressible sadness and weariness. The cry of the miserable and poor seemed to have penetrated beyond the deaf usher at the magnificent portals into the house of splendor, and to have smitten her to the heart.

Soon after, at the close of a little West London mission meeting at St. James' hall in 1886, a strikingly graceful and beautiful lady arose from the congregation of shabbily dressed and dirty people.

"I will gladly receive into my country home some of the destitute poor in the slums of Soho," she said quietly.

"Your name, please?" inquired the superintendent.

"Lady Henry Somerset," came the reply.

From that day Lady Somerset has worked untiringly among her multitude of tenants, numbering at least 100,000. At her castle gates she signed the pledge with forty of them. In every benevolent and humanitarian effort she has been a foremost leader of the women of England among the poor. A happy mother she is, too, her son accompanying her on her tour.

If you are at all clever you may make yourself the prettiest of little toques to match your gray broadcloth. Take a circular piece of the goods and draw upon it lines running from the center to the circumference. Have them almost meet in the center. Now buy some fine steel beads and cover these lines with them. When done, drape it carelessly on a small frame, put a gray aigrette and a jaunty bow of ribbon at the back and you will have a dainty, fashionable hat.

No less eminent authority than Sir Wm. Gull, of Great Britain, has said that the benefit derived from a university education, such as girls get at Newnham and Girton, makes them and their children stronger and healthier. Also that the percentage of childless marriages is less with the educated women, and the percentage of children that survive infancy is larger.

Lucy Hooper writes from Paris that she has seen in a jeweler's shop there the most marvelous pearl necklace of modern times. It took its former possessor 20 years to collect the pearls of which it is composed, and they were chosen with reference not to their size alone but to absolute perfection of form and color. The necklace is valued at $120,000, and is designed to be a present by the czar to his wife.

The New York Recorder says: The oldest of a large family of growing boys who was once impressed by his mother, a hard-worked farmer's wife, to help her in household duties, confided to a commiserating school crony that he could "stand most anything but the gol-darned dishwashing." Many a housewife and servant has doubtless echoed this sentiment in more or less forcible language.

In the same connection the Boston Transcript says: "Dishes and knives and forks are the great curse of our modern civilization. Without them there would be no servant girl question; there never was one before they were introduced. A society for the abolition of dishes might do a good deal to abolish the servant girl question."

"Abolition of dishes!" Here is iconoclasm for you! But will the Transcript man (or woman) tell us what is to be substituted? Certainly we are not going to retrograde to barbarism, and use our fingers for forks, or a bare board in place of a decorated plate. Not in that direction lies the solution of or the abolishment of "the servant girl question."

A new organization of women in San Francisco, styled the "Doctor's Daughters," is devoted to the relieving of the need of poor people that are in distress on account of illness in the family.

"In the matter of cookery," said Kate Field to a Sioux City Journal reporter the other day, "the majority of American women are neither fish, flesh, nor good red herring. So few of them take things seriously or practically! They don't know the scientific side of their work. I don't use scientific as being something difficult to understand, but doing a thing right. Women ought to know whether a certain article of food is heating or cooling to the blood, and whether or not it is easy or hard to digest. But the fact is that much of the larger number of them don't. Their cooking is simply outrageous. I am glad to hear that there is to be a cooking department in your new high-school building."

Hereafter the writing material and all the orders, receipts, documents and business papers of the Board of Lady Managers of the World's Fair will bear the new seal of the Commission. The design, originated by Miss Bodtker, of South Chicago, represents the old flagship of Christopher Columbus resting on the coat of arms of the United States, and encircled by a wreath of laurel. Scattered over the field are little stars in relief, identical in number with the members of the Board. Reams of notepaper have been ordered by the ladies for correspondence, and each sheet bears the prize seal. The success of Miss Bodtker has increased the value of her work 50 per cent. and more than doubled it in quantity.

A new invention is a rubber door-stop and hold-back, to prevent the slamming of doors and the marring of walls. A rosette containing a rubber ring is screwed into the door while a knob surmounted with an acorn-shaped ball of rubber is fastened to the base-board. When the door is thrown back the knob engages in the ring holding the door firmly.

Forty dollars a yard would seem to be a rather stiff price for a brocade, but that is the amount demanded, even in Paris, for the exquisite material which shows flowers woven to look like Gobelin tapestry in miniature.

If people would only take a little more care in selecting wedding presents brides would not be so burdened with a lot of useless articles which, if they were to express their candid opinion about, they would be glad to get rid of. Donors seem to have a mad desire to give all sorts and kinds of spoons that are utterly unavailable for ordinary occasions and have a doubtful significance anyway. In selecting a gift the taste and station in life of the recipient should be very attentively pondered over, but too often display is the first and only consideration. If a sort of exchange for wedding presents could be started there is no doubt that the enterprise would succeed, but it would have to be conducted on strictly confidential principles.

Something of the alertness, the thrift and ambition of the north has been infused into the gracious, lovable gentleness of the girl of the new south, and the new product is a most interesting species and not the indolent, dreamy, impassioned creature of antebellum days, even if it does slur its r's and slide the ings.

The Georgia Industrial college opened at Milledgeville for the instruction of girls in all branches of industrial art from cooking to stenography and from dressmaking to telegraphy is convincing evidence of advancement and practical progress. The old executive mansion in the town has been turned into a dormitory for the students and here southern belles, who are used to a dozen slaves to anticipate their wishes, cook and serve the food according to the latest scientific method. A plain but attractive seal brown gown and black mortar-board student's cap is the uniform of the school.

A man's faith in his ability to do a woman's work better than she does it is usually exactly in inverse ratio to what he knows about it.

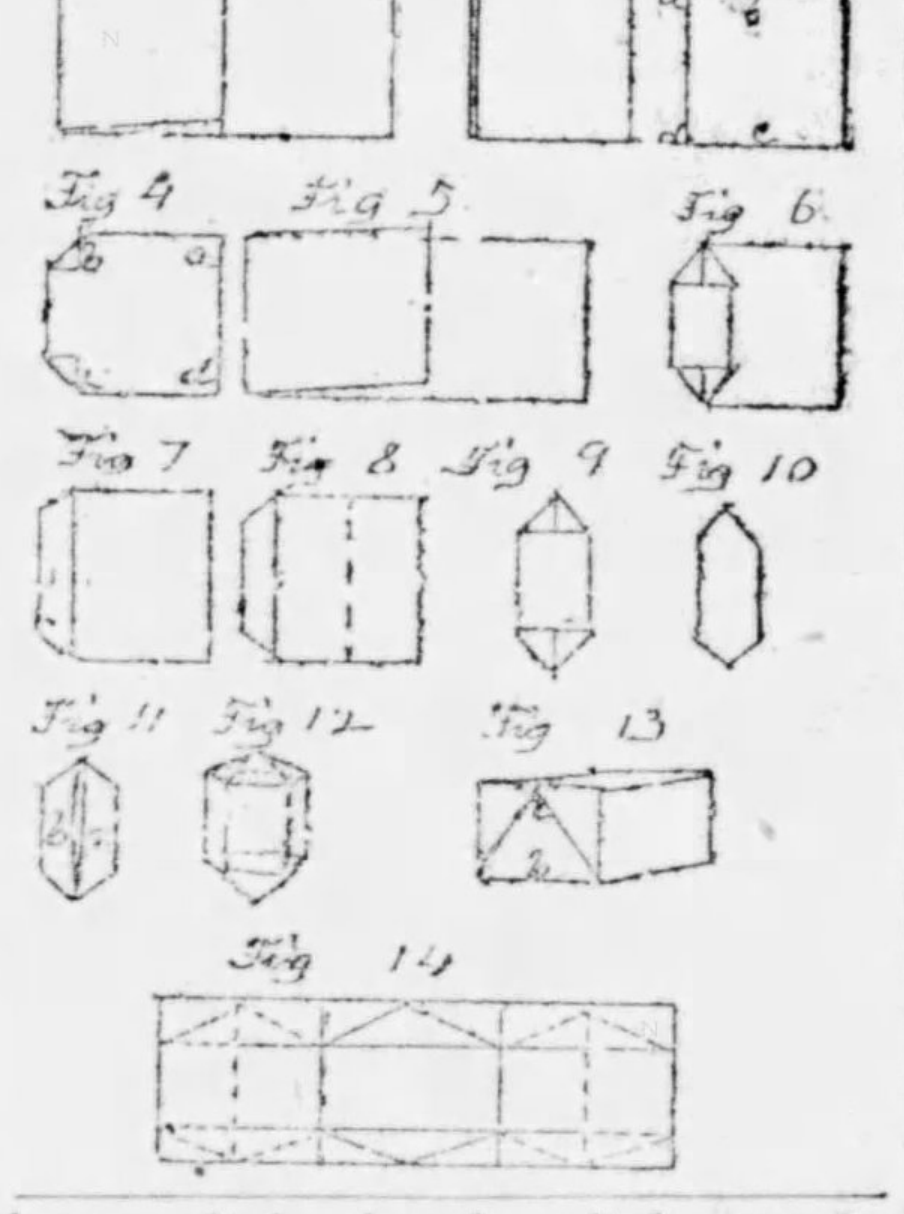
The distinguishing feature of a new bonnet worn at a recent "Ladies' Day" at one of the clubs was very long black satin strings quite three inches wide, which were brought from the usual point in the back, tied carelessly under the chin, but slightly toward the right, with the ends left to dangle far below the waist.

A woman physician from Philadelphia has established herself in Charleston, S. C., and the townspeople are observing her with curious eyes. She is the first woman physician in the city, and one of the few in the state.

Bon Bon Boxes.

Two weeks ago we published directions for making paper boxes for bonbons, and by some mistake the illustrations were left out. The two are published together to-day with apology to Miss Willey and the Household readers:

Small paper boxes are used so much that a description of how to make them may be of interest to your readers. Bon-bons, salted almonds, salted peanuts, salads and ice cream are served in them, one box full for each person and the size of the box is varied according to the amount desired to be served to each person.



Take a piece of stiff writing paper 4 by 6 inches and fold one-third in length towards the center, then fold the other third over the first third (F.2,) then fold the four corners towards the center like F. 3 and F. 4 on the third last folded. Now open it all out, then fold the first third towards center like F. 5, then fold the corners where creased (F. 6,) then fold A of F. 6 to B. For F. 8 fold A to B on creased line, fold corners where creased and fold A to B of the last third which was folded over, when it will look like F. 10. Take hold of A in F. 11 with one hand and B with the other and pull apart when you will have F. 12. Now crease dotted lines to form your box, when it will look like F. 13. Tie a very narrow ribbon around A. B. of F. 13, this will help to keep the box stiff and will add to its beauty. The boxes can be left like F. 10 until you are ready to use them and in that shape can be sent any distance without trouble. When used line with waxed paper and then the grease will not penetrate the paper. When the paper is unfolded it is found creased like F. 14 and the dotted lines turn towards you and the others turn from you.

Chicago, Ill. NELLIE WILLEY.

The Next Century Knight.

Miss Willard has written a boy's pledge. It embraces a great deal, and this is it:

I pledge my brain, God's thoughts to think,
My lips no fire or foam to drink
From alcoholic cup, nor link
With my pure breath, tobacco's taint;
For have I not a right to be
As wholesome and as pure as she
Who, through the years so glad and free,
Moves gently onward to meet me?
A knight of the New Chivalry
Of Christ and Temperance I would be,
In Nineteen hundred, come and see!

DON'T DELAY TO

Stop that cough! Else the bronchial tubes will be enlarged and the delicate tissues of the lungs exposed to injury. No other medicine is so speedily operative in throat and lung troubles as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A few doses have been known to break up an obstinate and distressing cough. Sufferers from asthma, bronchitis, croup, consumption, sore throat, and whooping cough find a sure relief in the use of this preparation. It soothes the inflamed membrane, promotes expectoration, and induces repose. Try Don't be without it in the house. Sallie E. Stone, Hurt's store, Va., writes: "I have found, in my family, that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was always a certain cure for colds and coughs."

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and was completely cured."—Anga A. Lewis, Ricard, N. Y.

MOST PEOPLE

Know only a comparatively few things thoroughly—all else is more or less uncertain.

Take your own case. What do you know about CARPETS, for instance? Are you competent to detect poor materials, or imperfect weaving, or unreliable colorings, or old-style patterns?

No.

Then will it not be wisdom on your part to make your purchases of CARPETS where all these points are taken care of in your interest, and where you are protected, not only from direct misrepresentation, but from the results of your own inexperience?

That seems plain enough.

Just two things we promise every customer. They are these:

That every salesman shall tell the whole truth about every piece of goods offered for sale; that anything which proves imperfect, through the appearance of any hidden defect subsequent to purchase, shall be made right.

The name of our firm stands behind these two guarantees.

Very likely you are thinking of purchasing one or more CARPETS shortly. If so, consider what we have said.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles

London wheat market steady and firmer; corn steady. French country markets quiet. Liverpool wheat steady at advance of 1-2 pence. Corn shade better.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,349,412 bu, compared with 601,748 bu on the same day last yar.

California Wheat Movement.—The receipts at San Francisco in the week ending November 18th equaled 764,410 bu of wheat and 49,595 bbls of flour. The exports equaled 6,320,370 bus of wheat and 45,167 bbls of flour. The receipts from July 1st to November 15, 1891, flour and wheat, equal 14,255,481 bus. compared with 10,909,177 bus in 1890.

Bradstreet's says the San Franciscans have over-estimated the surplus wheat for export.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 747,664 bu. in excess of the corresponding Saturday in 1890.

The receipts of grain this week at eight principal western points are: Wheat, 7,195,000 bu.; corn, 2,040,000 bu.; oats, 1,850,000 bu. Previous week, wheat 7,-090,000 bu.; corn, 1,669,000 bu.; oats, 2,602,000 bu. Week corresponding to this in 1890, wheat, 3,460,000 bu.; corn, 974,000 bu.; oats, 1,429,000 bu., showing an increase of 3,735,000 bu. of wheat, 1,066,000 bu. of corn, and 421,000 bu. of oats in 1891.

The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were 163,682 bu. of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 310,-000 bu.

The exports for the week at four Atlantic ports were: Wheat, 2,188,000 bu.; corn, 376,000 bu., oats, 254,000 bu.

Bradstreet's reports the exports from eleven United States ports 4,080,000 bu. Previous week, 5,400,000 bu.

Flour.

By the Minneapolis report of the flour output, and the flour market, it will be seen that the latter is fairly firm and active, and in this respect somewhat in contrast with the seaboard markets.

Foreign Markets.

The tone of foreign grain markets to-day is not very strong, while prices are generally maintained. Foreigners are reported as buying in a limited way.

Our Seaboard.

The bank statement herein, is the strongest for months past, and credences an easy money market for the future.

Markets To-day.

There are no new features of interest in the grain markets to-day, and especially nothing to encourage any upward turn in values. The wheat movement of the week is without a precedent in our history in the last week in November, and the falling off of 1,400,000 bu in the week's export from both coasts is not a bull item. The result of the movement will give a large increase in the visible, or would do so if rail shipments eastward were taken into account by the compilers. Markets close weak. In New York at 12 o'clock November and December wheat closed 1-8c lower; December corn 2c lower, December 5-8c lower; December oats 1-4c up.

In Chicago wheat declined after the close of New York, and the November corn deal gave signs of weakness. November and December wheat closed 5-8c lower. December corn 7-8c and November oats 1-4c lower.

In Toledo the business reported in wheat futures has been lighter to-day and the market has been weak. It has been a dull Saturday and without events of consequence. On the call December sold at 97c and May at $1 04 1-2 to $1 04 5-8. After the call December sold at 97c, and closed at 96 1-2c asked, a loss of 3-4c. May sold at 1.04 5-8@1.04 3-4, and closed at $1.04 asked, a loss of 1-2@5-8c. After 'change at $1.04 bid cash wheat continues very quiet and the inquiry is light. No. 2 soft sold at 96 3-4 to 96 1-4c, and closed at 96 1-4c asked, a loss of 1-2c. No. 3 soft at 93 3-4 to 93c. No. 4 soft at 87c. Rejected No. 2 at 78c. No. 1 white at 92 1-c. No. 2 at 93 1-2c.

Corn No. 2 for May at 44 1-2c; No. 4 at 45@45 1-4c. No. inspection at 40c. Oats, No. 2, 34 1-2c. Rye was dearer. No. 2 at 95c, closing at 94 1-2c.

Clover seed was about steady. Prime for cash at $5.20. December on the call at $5.17 1-2; after the call $5.15. February, $5.30. No. 2 at $487 1-2@5.00.

Continuing, Major Brackett fully described and warmly praised the new emigrant depot on Ellis island, paying particular attention to the medical and sanitary arrangements at the new landing place for emigrants.

ITALIANS ON A TEAR.

A Bloody War Liable to Occur in Ohio.

Bitter Feeling Has Existed for Some Time and It Culminated in an Outbreak Yesterday.

Wapakoneta, O., Nov. 28.—The bitter feeling existing between the Italians on a construction train at Yorkville, a small hamlet on the Chicago & Erie road, and the local crew, which began several weeks ago and promised to become a riot, broke out again yesterday from the same cause.

The local crew backed down on the siding at full speed and collided with the car in which the Italians eat and sleep. The Italians were at their meals when the car was struck, and they were tumbled about promiscuously. Some of them were severely injured. They all jumped out of the car and arming themselves with clubs and rocks assailed the local crew, who were armed with revolvers.

A pitched battle ensued, and the Italians were driven back into their car. Three Italians, Frank Cattoni, Frank Larofi and Antonio Marcetti, were fatally wounded. Two of the local crew were seriously hurt.

The Italians are in a perfect frenzy and swear they will exterminate the whole crew. The local men are fully as determined, and unless decisive measures are taken with both parties the feud will result in both factions being wiped from the face of the earth.

THE AEOLIAN AND THE BUSINESS MAN.

The active man of business does not have sufficient leisure to enable him to give music enough time to learn to play, or to keep up his practice, if he has taken lessons when younger; he is, therefore, entirely dependent upon the performance of others for any music he may desire to hear.

For people in this situation, the Aeolian is especially adapted. The knowledge necessary to enable a person to play is so slight that any one can master the instrument with a few week's practice; your mood can then dictate your selections. A symphony or an opera can be played as readily as a waltz or ballad, and anything ever written can be obtained for the Aeolian.

THE TREATMENT given at this Dispensary is peculiarly our own and is different from that given by any medical practitioner, the remedies used being the discoveries of our Dr. Samuel Charles Evans, who has given all of the best years of his life to their production and perfection. They are infallible. Their efficacy is amply attested by the thousands of cures that have been performed by our treatment. No one need suffer from the many ills above enumerated because we can guarantee a cure if the sufferer will but call at our Dispensary or write us.

The eighth class costs 22 francs; the ninth, 8 francs, and the tenth is free. There are about 35,000 annual free interments. There is talk, however, of abolishing the monopoly.
